WARNING TO O'MEARA

"Police Commissioner O'Meara will hear from us. There are 11,000 White Ribboners in Massachusetts and over 2,000 in Boston. And when 11,000 women get after a man, that man will be aware of the fact, and it makes no difference whether that man is a police commissioner or not."

—Statement made to-day by Dr. Adelaide N. Abbott, Secretary of Boston Central Union, of the W. C. T. U.

THIS IS THE MAN!

Police Commissioner O'Meara, who says he is not interested in the work of the Watch and Ward Society. Eleven thousand women will now ask him "why?"

11,000 WOMEN CALL ON O'MEARA TO WIPE OUT VICIOUS DENS

Eleven thousand members of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union of Massachusetts will demand, through the personal call upon him of a committee, that Police Commissioner O'Meara put an end to the notorious traffic in humanity that flourishes in Boston's vicious resorts under the eyes of the blinded Bluecoats sworn to see that the laws of the city are obeyed.

This declaration was made to-day by Dr. Adelaide N. Abbott, secretary of the Boston Central Union of the White Ribboners, while District Attorney Hill was beginning to sift the mass of evidence gathered by the Watch and Ward Society, which shows what the conditions really are. District Attorney Hill promised J. Frank Chase, secretary of the Watch and Ward Society, that he would take immediate action upon the facts presented to him.

Will Call on O'Meara.

Dr. Abbott, who lives at No. 455 East Eighth street, South Boston, visited Mrs. Ada Tribble, secretary of the W. C. T. U. of Suffolk County, at the latter's home in Somerville to-day and arrangements were discussed for the committee's visit to Police Commissioner O'Meara. The ladies on the committee will take with them a resolution adopted at the union's meeting yesterday as follows:

Resolved, That we deplore the fact that the Police Commissioner or say the police department do not more earnestly co-operate with the Watch and Ward Society to suppress the "white slave traffic" and the "social evil."

In a remarkable interview to-day Dr. Abbott declared that conditions in Boston are really worse than they are in Chicago, San Francisco or St. Louis, to her personal knowledge, and that the evils flourish in Boston "through the indifference of severe officers of the law to perform the plain duty that their oath of office should impose upon them."

When the action of the W. C. T. U. and of District Attorney Hill in connection with the Watch and Ward revelations was called to the attention of Police Commissioner O'Meara to-day he said:

"I would be pleased to have any responsible person make an investigation of this department."

Mr. O'Meara emphasized the word "responsible."

The resolution adopted by the White

HAILED BY BIG CROWD

Dr. Frederick A. Cook, the discoverer of the North Pole, reached Boston at 1.45 o'clock this afternoon from New York and was greeted by a great throng at the South Station. The eminent explorer received a tremendous ovation.

From the South Station Dr. Cook was taken to the Hotel Touraine, where he remains until he goes to Symphony Hall to lecture this evening. Harry Whitney, upon whom Cook relies for some proof of his story, is expected in Boston to-night on his way to New York, and it is expected that Cook and Whitney will meet.

A crowd of fully 5,000 people surged through the South Station and massed on the platform at track No. 15 long before Dr. Cook's train arrived. The train came into the station some five or seven minutes late.

The moment the explorer appeared a rush was made for the platform of his car. The squad of policemen were hurled back as though they were children. Dr. Cook could not more than appear in the door of his car. He could not descend to the platform of the train shed.

A squad of policemen had to harry around the car and come over the platform of the car to drive the people back. "Three cheers for Dr. Cook," yelled a man. They were given with a will.

"Three cheers for the Arctic explorer," yelled another. These were given. "Speech! Speech," yelled the crowd. The doctor refused.

"My heart is too full of emotion to speak," he said to an AMERICAN reporter.

It took the police fully fifteen minutes to fight a passage for the doctor to a carriage in front of the station. A child was trampled upon and Cook was jostled about unceremoniously and his feet were trampled. He had to be fairly dragged into his carriage.

Before leaving New York on the 8 o'clock train to-day, Cook and Commander

PHOTOGRAPHS ARE OFFERED IN STEEL CASE

Attorney Henry F. Hurlburt, as spokesman for the army of lawyers representing the thirty-two defendants in the steel cases, to-day introduced photographs of buildings made of concrete. District Attorney Hill objected to their admission until Attorney Hurlburt should explain why they were offered.

"I offer them to show that important and expensive buildings are now made of concrete construction," said Mr. Hurlburt.

This is to meet the contention of the District Attorney to the effect that steel is a practical necessity in all building construction.

Frederick H. Fay of the engineers's office of the city, was a witness again today. This is the third day he has been on the stand. He was cross-examined by Attorney Hurlburt, who asked if it had not been his experience that bidders often did work at cost for the sake of keeping their factories running. The witness admitted that it was so. He also admitted that it was frequently the custom among bidders to put in high figures merely for the purpose of keeping their names before the public for the advertising thus gained. The witness was finally asked if it was true that his own estimate of the cost of the structural steel in the new Cambridge bridge was $100,000 in excess of what the contract was finally let for.

"I don't recall that this is so," replied the witness.

Q.—Well, isn't it true that your estimate was higher? A.—Yes, that is true.

Q.—Well, how much higher? A.—About ten per cent., I think.

Q.—Well, if the contract was finally awarded for $578,000, then your estimate of the cost of the steel was $82,000 higher than the price for which it was finally bought? A.—Yes, that is true.

HUNTINGTON AVENUE GROUNDS, Oct. 1.—With the promise of seeing Manager Hugh Jennings of the Detroit team play first base, a position he filled on the Brooklyn team several years ago, a good-sized crowd of fans gathered around the pasture to-day to witness the final game of the series between the Red Sox and Tigers.

Time, many of the battle-scarred stars of the American League champions had been shipped off home to rest up for the world's championship games, but there were enough good ones left in the Tiger bunch to make the game interesting.

The weather was a trifle chilly, and the warm bleacher seats were popular with the fans. The regular season here ends tomorrow with a double-header, Red Sox vs. New Yorks, after which the speed boys will play a few exhibition games and then meet the Giants in New York for the first game of their post series which begins next Friday.

THREE MONTHS FOR HITTING CONDUSTOR

For assaulting Albert Sallerino, a conductor on a Boston Elevated car, who asked him for his fare, Alexander Thornell, colored, thirty-five years old, of No. 19 Dodge street, Cambridgeport, was sentenced to three months in the House of Correction by Judge Alley of the Cambridge District Court to-day. A number of other conductors, who were riding on the car, held Thornell until the car reached the Cambridge police headquarters.

STOUGHTON MAN, 72, WEDS BRIDE OF 26

Richard Wentz, seventy-two, a member of the Stoughton Historical Society and director of the Stoughton Co-operative Bank, was married at the Stoughton Congregational Church by the Rev. A. L. Bean to Miss Bessie Swift, twenty-six.

BANKER LEWIS IS HELD IN $3,500

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—Henry W. Lewis, president of the National Trust Company, at the conclusion of his examination before United States Commissioner Taylor to-day, was held for the Federal Grand Jury, under bonds of $3,500, which were furnished. Lewis is charged with conducting a concern which claimed to guarantee stock issues of corporations, but which the authorities say had no means of carrying out its promises.

RAISIN WINE MUST PAY LIQUOR TAX

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—Internal Revenue officers say there is no question but that the courts will uphold the decision of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue that raisin wine, being spirits within the meaning of the law, must pay the tax of $1.10 per gallon. The action of Judge Kohlsaat, in Chicago, in issuing a restraining order against the collection of the tax, it is asserted here, is nothing unusual. The tax goes into effect to-day.

WOMAN SAW RUSSELL WED AS 'RUSEAU'

Mrs. Julie Deno, wife of a former chief of police in Messina, New York, created a sensation in the probate court at East Cambridge, to-day, when she swore that she was present when the man claiming half of a $500,000 estate as Daniel Blake Russell was married under the name of Ruseau.

Pointing out a man in the witness box, she declared: "That man is the brother of James Delbert Ruseau, his name is William C. Ruseau. He is the brother of the claimant in this case.

"He and I stood together at the door of his court room and looked at the claimant. He sat by his lawyers. We both saw him, and as we gazed at him he looked around as we were both positive that he was James Delbert Ruseau."

Mrs. Deno's testimony followed that of Archibald Redpath, who resumed the stand to-day for cross-examination by Attorney Simpson for Daniel Blake Russell.

Identifies Photographs.

Attorney Simpson made the witness repeat his testimony of yesterday to the effect that James Delbert Ruseau was very much a characteristic, by the way, attributed by all the witnesses to Daniel Blake Russell.

"I did not mean that he was very shy," said Mrs. Deno, "but he was very quiet in that respect. I never saw Ruseau in the way shy at all."

Mrs. Deno identified all the photo-

TWO WORKMEN FATALLY HURT BY BOULDER

Two men working in the great hole which the Nawa Construction Company is excavating in the "Little Common," near Harvard square, Cambridge, for a subway station, were terribly bruised to-day when a boulder weighing half a ton crashed down upon them.

Both men will die. One was identified as Tony Pallegro, thirty-five years old, of No. 327 North street, North End, Boston. One leg was broken, his head crushed and he received internal injuries. The other man's name has not been ascertained. His legs and arms were broken and head crushed and he received internal injuries.

From sixty to seventy men were at work excavating in the big oblong hole which is thirty or forty feet in depth. The sides of the hole are kept in place by a great framework of timbers.

The earth was being removed in steel baskets drawn up by a steel cable affixed to a crane. A bowlder had been dug from the pits and had been loaded into one of the baskets. As it was being swung toward Harvard square the steel cable parted, the rock crashed down through the timbers. The workmen deep in the excavation escaped injury except two. These were plunged to the earth under the huge bowlder. As soon as possible the other laborers with crowbars and timbers pried the stone from the men, while others got the building apparatus into working order.

The injured men were hurried to the Cambridge Relief Hospital.

CAMBRIDGE ROBBERS GET WATCH AND CASH

Mrs. Mary Hickey of No. 38 Maple avenue, Cambridge, reported to the Cambridge police to-day that thieves entered her house through a back window at 4 a. m., ransacked her husband's bedroom and stole a gold watch and chain valued at $50 and $4 in money, which were in his pockets. She heard the noise, but was too frightened to get up.

UPROAR OVER PEARY IN NAVAL PAGEANT

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—Whistles of a hundred harbor craft shrieked salutes to the Arctic steamer Roosevelt as she plowed up the harbor to-day, with Commander Robert E. Peary on the bridge. He was saluted by every one of the warships in the Hudson as he piloted his ship along the battleship line and joined the floating pageant up the river in the Hudson-Fulton celebration.

Fifteen minutes after Commander Peary boarded her, the Roosevelt started northward in the naval parade. About twenty friends were on the ship with Peary.

As the Arctic ice-fighter pushed her way through the Hudson, the battleships greeted her with a roar of cannon and from Riverside Drive the cheers were echoed across to the Palisades.

Captain Bartlett and the Roosevelt's crew of nineteen men were in the same garments they wore on their trip to the Arctic.

As the Roosevelt poked through the Narrows, every steam whistle on land and water was shrieking its salute and all brief intervals the Arctic ship would reply. Peary listened, a few minutes, and remarked:

"She won't have any steam left for the trip up the river if she keeps that up much longer."

Glad to Be Back.

"How does it feel to be back?" he was asked before starting.

"It doesn't feel as worse—in the words of Chimmie Fadden," replied the explorer, his thoughts turning first upon the Roosevelt. "She doesn't look like a very imposing ship, does she?" he said. "But up in the ice she looks like something and there were times when she looked mighty good to me."

Big Flotilla of Ships.

The first of the vessels began moving up the river from Ft. Lee and Spuyten Duyvil Creek at 7:30 a. m., and for two hours it was got-a-way time for the ships making up the line. There was a distinguished gathering of visitors.

An army of tugs, steamers, sailboats and other craft, all tooted whistles and for hours. The plan of the procession is made Newburg the meeting place of two naval processions, one leaving Albany and the other New York. The parade from this city consisted of a squad of honor to convoy the Clermont and Half Moon beyond Ossining—the Roosevelt, torpedo boats, a cruiser, submarine boats and a long line of other decorated craft.

The U. S. S. Castine, the United States cruiser Portsmouth, twelve torpedo boats, four smaller submarines and six squadrons comprising steamboats plying on inland waters, freighboats, steam yachts, motor boats, tugs, steam lighters, United States revenue cutters, sailing craft, submarine boats, a scout squadron and other vessels made up the procession.

Celebrations Along Route.

At every town along the route there was a celebration. At 7 a. m. the Half Moon and Clermont hoisted anchor at Albany and, accompanied by a fleet of other vessels, started for Cornwall. It was there that the duplicates of the two famous ships joined the naval procession and continued toward Newburg bay. It was estimated that there were approximately 200 vessels in the entire pageant. About 250 ships of various sizes and powers were hurrying north while about fifty that started from Albany were coming south.

At Cornwall there was a civic and military parade with a children's festival in Palmer's Park. An Indian camp had been established on the shore of the Hudson and the pedestrians gave the Half Moon a greeting of war whoops as they paddled out in their canoes.

The day was crisp and clear, and along the route of the pageant the banks were crowded with visitors. Newburg was the center of a great army of visitors.

The public reception for the foreign visitors took place at once after the arrival of the fleets. Another feature of the Newburg program was a shore dit, or for 5,000 guests. A militia and marine parade, a miniature counterpart of the New York city pageant, was given during the day.

GENERAL SLAIN; 200 MEN FALL

MADRID, Oct. 1.—General Diez Vicario was killed and 200 other soldiers killed or wounded in a terrific battle between the Spanish and Moors, when the tribesmen attacked a reconnoitring party of Spanish troops near Zeluan. The Spanish party were outnumbered and compelled to fall back.

One lieutenant and fourteen soldiers were killed and two are known to have been wounded. The Moorish losses were said to be heavier.

SMOKE CAUSES A PANIC ABOARD THE EDGEMONT

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—Smoke filled the cabins and saloon of the Joy liner Edgemont early to-day and created a panic among the 140 passengers. A frightened man gave the alarm, rushing through the ship and pounding on doors, and in a few moments the decks were crowded. All the trouble was caused by a defective flue in the kitchen, according to the officials of the Joy Line.

In the excitement the lights went out for half an hour, and for a time the engines were stopped. Women screamed when the excitement increased, and many of the passengers prepared to jump or take to boats. The officers and crew, however, remained cool, and after hard work calmed the hysterical passengers.

The Edgemont left Providence last night. It was nearly daylight when the smoke began to fill the saloon. In a few moments the passengers who were awake had become alarmed, and crying warnings pounded on the doors of the cabins.

It was more than an hour before the smoke was cleared out. Many of the passengers refused to remain on board the Edgemont continued her trip, docking after schedule time.

COWBOY WIFE DIVORCED BY LYNN DOCTOR

LYNN, Oct. 1.—Dr. James Castle of Lynn was to-day granted a divorce from his wife, Mrs. Ora E. Castle, formerly well-known as Lynn's "cowboy girl," on the grounds of desertion. Mrs. Castle left her husband because he objected to the attention her picturesque Western costume attracted when she rode her fleet pony through Lynn's streets.

The doctor's wife, who is also a physician, is at her home in New Philadelphia, O., where she went when she left him on August 19, 1905. They were married on July 7, 1898. The divorce was uncontested.

One night when the doctor returned to his home he found the house vacant. He testified. His wife had gone, taking most of her possessions and some of his. When he heard from her she was at her old home in New Philadelphia.

Dr. Castle met his dashing wife when he was traveling through Ohio. No more picturesque figure than that of the beautiful Mrs. Castle was ever seen in Lynn. Seated on her spirited broncho, dressed in a suit of deerskin with wide-rimmed sombrero and riding astride the "cowboy girl bride" of the doctor created a sensation wherever she was seen. Many a society belle in Lynn became her pupil. She was also an excellent shot with a rifle.

Dr. and Mrs. Castle entertained lavishly at their home. Savory bingazee, and the romantic wedding seemed for a year or so to be one of perfect happiness.

TANGLE OVER CURLEY PROBE

There is a tangle at City Hall over the employment of Ezra Tupper as counsel for the investigating committee appointed by the aldermen to look into the charges made by Alderman James M. Curley of Ward 17 that city officials are on the pay rolls of the New England Sanitary Products Company which has sold disinfectants to the city. The committee consists of Aldermanic W. Dudley Cotton, Mathew Hale, Jr., and J. Frank O'Hare.

Lawyer Tupper and a stenographer were hired by the committee despite the fact that the order passed by the board authorizing the employment of counsel has not been signed by Mayor Hibbard. The Mayor says if the order to use city law department for a decision on its legality.

Alderman O'Hare, a member of the committee, is of the opinion that it is illegal. Aldermen Cotton and Hale believe that it is legal.

HELD IN $3,000 FOR SHOOTING

Nervous and downcast, Samuel D. Kenniston to-day pleaded guilty to the charge of assaulting with intent to murder his sister-in-law, Mrs. Emma J. Young at her home, No. 35 Brighton street, Charlestown, yesterday. Kenniston was arraigned before Judge Bragg in the Charlestown Police Court.

"He is the best man in the world when he isn't drinking," said Mrs. Young, who was in court.

Judge Bragg held Kenniston for the Superior Criminal Court in $3,000 bail. Patrolman Crowley said that when he arrested Kenniston the man told him that he had tried to shoot his sister-in-law. He said that he had intended to blow his own brains out afterward, but that he had lost his courage.

Braganza Sued for His Railroad Fare.

VIENNA—Prince Miguel of Braganza, who married Miss Anita Stewart of New York at Tullock Castle, Dingwall, Scotland, September 15, has been sued by a money lender for $1,200 in the Commercial Court of Justice here. The money lender claimed that the Prince, whose marriage was attended by a brilliant company of American plutocrats and Austrian aristocrats, borrowed $1,200 from him when the Prince found himself unable to pay his hotel bill in Paris. Furthermore, the inexorable money lender averred, the eldest son of the Pretender to Portugal's throne said he had not money enough to buy a railroad and steamship ticket to Scotland, where his future bride awaited him. During the proceedings the money lender and his witnesses testified that Prince Miguel protested strongly against the amount of interest charged on the loan. But they added that he asked the same money lender for a further loan of about $40,000.

Wants $200,000 Mars Telescope.

BERLIN—Director Friedrich S. Archenhold of the Treptow Observatory, Berlin's official astronomer, dashed cold water on the proposal of Professor Pickering of Harvard that a mirror six-tenths of a mile square be used for the purpose of establishing communication with the inhabitants of Mars. Professor Archenhold says that while he respects Professor Pickering as an able and serious scientist, he cannot agree with him that optical understanding with Mars is possible, because at the time when Mars nears the earth the inhabitants of that planet, if it has any, would be unable to see the earth, since at that time the sun's rays come between the two planets. Professor Archenhold feels sure that at a cost of only $200,000 it would be possible to construct a telescope by which anybody could see what is going on on Mars.

"Smith" a Comedy Success.

LONDON—"Smith," a new four-act comedy by Somerset Maugham, produced by Charles Frohman at the Comedy Theatre, scored a notable success. It tells the story of Thomas Freeman, a young society man who failed in business as a stock broker and went to farming in Rhodesia, returning home after eight years to look for a wife to take back with him to the veldt. Disgusted at the heartless, cynical, sordid way in which his sister and her friends live, he marries "Smith," his sister's pretty parlor maid. Robert Loraine played the role of Thomas Freeman.

Russian Senator a Suicide.

ST. PETERSBURG—Senator Kovalevsky, formerly Director of the Department of Police and an official of high social standing, committed suicide in St. Petersburg by shooting. The Senator's two sons were recently involved in a street brawl in which several persons were killed or wounded, and this incident preyed upon the father's mind.

Big North German Earnings.

BREMEN—The financial report of the North German Lloyd Steamship Company for the first six months of 1900 shows net earnings, less general expenses and interest charges, of $1,250,000 as against losses for the corresponding period of 1908 amounting to $1,750,000.

ENGINE OFF TRACK; TEARS UP STREET

Engine No. 4 of the Union Freight Railway, while shifting Boston & Maine freight cars along Causeway street, to-day, left the rails in front of the North station and between Friend and Canal streets. The engine dragged a freight car from the rails with it. A Boston & Maine locomotive pulled the car back upon the rails but it was necessary to get a wrecking crew with a great crane before the derailed engine was put back. The street was badly torn up.

BRITISH SEAMEN SUE CAPTAIN FOR WAGES

The crew of the British ship Brynhilda have appealed to legal authorities to get what they say are withheld payments for their trip from Buenos Ayres to Boston. The leaders in the fight against the captain are Joseph Scott and William Daniels, members of the crew. The men allege that they were subjected to every cruelty and privation while making the trip.

KICK FALSE TEETH DOWN MAN'S THROAT

Reno Small of No. 192 Washington avenue, Cambridge, was attacked by three men on Broadway in that city shortly after midnight and does not know whether they did it for spite or robbery. His cries for help frightened them away before they could rob him, if they were highwaymen. They kicked his upper false teeth down his throat and fractured his lower jaw. The assault took place near the marine hospital and surgeons there extracted the false teeth from his throat.

HALLEY'S COMET IS SIGHTED AT HARVARD

Halley's comet, which is nearing the earth again for the first time since the 15th century, has been sighted at the Harvard Observatory, and the astronomers there are eagerly watching the celestial visitor. At present it can be followed in its course only with the aid of the most powerful telescope, but it is gradually increasing in brilliancy and will soon be visible with only a moderately strong glass.

Officials at the observatory stated to-day that the comet would not be visible to the naked eye until early in the spring when it approaches perihelion.

WE speak what we firmly believe to be words of truth and soberness when we say that our array of Gentlemen's Dress for Fall and Winter is the smartest, most exclusive, most distinctive, most genuinely satisfying in Boston.

And why say "Boston?" They will triumph over any ready-to-wear clothes in America, for our style leadership is now recognized as National.

In many years of clothes-making we've never before touched the elegance which characterizes this season's Suits and Overcoats. In Design, Execution and Finish and Originality of Patterns they equal the tailor-craft of the most select tailors in America.

We are hoping no man will miss the pleasure of inspecting the Hilton Lines for Fall. When we have something so distinctly out of the usual, we want to share the satisfaction of it with appreciative people.

You will then please construe this as an urgent invitation to you to come and enjoy and study and buy.

We are making a special showing of superlatively good Fall Suits and Overcoats at

WOMEN FLEE NIGHT FIRE IN SCANTY DRESS

Fire which destroyed the one and one-half story frame carpenter shop owned and occupied by James T. King at No. 297 Ninth street, South Boston, early today caused three families living in the three-fast brick building, No. 299, to flee from their homes in their night clothes.

How the fire caught is not known. As the carpenter shop was filled with dry wood and great piles of shavings the flames spread rapidly. An air shaft connected with the three-story brick building adjoining the little carpenter shop drew the dense smoke and flames up the narrow court.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Deering and baby lived in their eight-dollar room the third floor of No. 299. From the second story Mr. and Mrs. Jonas Gardner and their two daughters, two and four years old, also escaped, while the wife and three children of Policeman Bartley, on duty in Charlestown, crawled down from the third floor to the street, scantily clad.

Families living in the three-story frame apartment houses just opposite the blazing carpenter shop began to move out. The alarm alarmed the whole neighborhood, and for a time the street was crowded with excited people. The damage is said to be about $1,000.

BODY SHOOK AND TREMBLED

Extreme Nervousness Cured by the Tonic Treatment with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

The first thing to do when threatened with nervous trouble is to stop the cause of it, if possible, whether it is irregular living, worry, or whatever it may be. Then the nerves must be given special nourishment and the blood must be kept pure and rich. This is the mission of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and this is why the pills have been used with such great success in nervous trouble that did not yield to ordinary methods of treatment.

Mrs. H. R. Evans, of West Swanzey, N. H., found no help for her nervousness until she tried Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. She says:

"Two years ago I was on the verge of nervous prostration. I was so nervous that I dropped everything I took in my hands. I seemed to shake and tremble all over my body and could not keep still. I had severe pains all through my body but especially through the small of my back. My hands were numb. I got bad dreadful headaches over my eyes and fainted away several times. I was hungry all of the time but could not satisfy my hunger. I lost in weight and was pale.

"I had been sick for six years before I began taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which were recommended to me by a friend. Before I had used the pills long I began to feel better and after a fair trial I was cured. I could work all day and felt better than I ever had before. My health is good now and I can recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills as a good tonic medicine."

The tonic treatment with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills by building up the blood so that it can nourish and strengthen the weakened nervous system has made hundreds of cures in the most severe nervous disorders. This record of cures should merit a trial for the remedy which is guaranteed free from opiates and is entirely harmless.

Write for a free copy of our new booklet, "Diseases of the Nervous System." It will be sent postpaid on request.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or sent by mail, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box; six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y. The genuine pills are never sold loose, by the dozen or hundred.

JULIA COOLIDGE, JUST ENGAGED TO HENRY RICHARDS

MISS JULIA COOLIDGE.

CUPID SNARES VERY ELUSIVE MISS COOLIDGE

Still another triumph for Cupid—for he has at last caught fast in his net the charming and ever-elusive Julia Coolidge, who since her earliest days at dancing classes has been counted the belle of her set and has been sought after by many eligible young men in society. The lucky man is Henry B. Richards, son of Mrs Henry Richards of Claremor, Mo., and a nephew of Mrs. John Ward Howe.

Miss Coolidge, who was one of the most prominent of the season's buds two Winters ago, and is a member of the Vincent Club, is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Randolph Coolidge, Jr., of Isaac street, Longwood. She made her début as a ball given for her by her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Randolph Coolidge, Sr., at their home on Beacon street.

She is witty and winsome, generous and democratic, as well as a beauty of no little note; so no need to wonder at her popularity. She is related to many of Boston's most foremost families, among the most prominent being George A. Gard her of Commonwealth avenue, who is a brother of Mrs. J. Randolph Coolidge, Sr., as was also the late John L. Gardner. George P. Gardner of Beacon street is a cousin of Miss Coolidge's father, and Mrs. Francis Boyer Chamberlain Gardner is a cousin.

Mr. Richards, who is connected with Groton School, is a nephew of Mrs. John Hubbard and Mrs. David Prescott Hall, daughters of Mrs. Julia Ward Howe. Mrs. Hall's Birckhead (Caroline Minturn Hall), whose wedding to the Rev. Hugh Birckhead, rector of St. George's Church, New York, took place during the late Summer, is a cousin. Professor Henry M. Howe of Columbia University is an uncle.

The marriage will take place next Spring.

MRS. CABOT WINS FIGHT TO SEE CHILDREN

Society people of this city read with interest the decree of Judge Grant in the Probate Court providing that Mrs. Lucy Fuller Cabot shall have the right to see her two children, Sylva, six years of age, and Faith, five, one day each week, and that the mother is to have her children one month each Summer, but that she must not take them from the State.

Until something over a year ago Philip Cabot, a millionaire, lived with his pretty wife and children in the Cabot family mansion, No. 2 Mt. Vernon square. Mrs. Cabot was Lucy Fuller before her marriage. She is the grandniece of Margaret Fuller, the authoress of the 40s and who married Count Ossoli.

After his wife left him, Mr. Cabot took his two daughters with him and went into seclusion at his splendid bungalow in Pontiac, in the town of Canton. He admitted reluctantly that he and his wife had separated, but he refused to give any reason.

Then Back Bay society was given another surprise when it learned that Mrs. Cabot had purchased a twenty-acre site two miles south of Sioux Falls, South Dakota. It was intimated that the pretty woman was to secure a residence there and that this was preliminary to divorce proceedings.

Mrs. Cabot, in her petition for the custody of her children, signed her residence as Canton, S. D.

500 CHILDREN ABOVE BURNING MASS OF COAL

Fire broke out in 100 tons of soft coal in the basement of St. Mary's parochial school, at Harvard and Homer streets, Brookline, early today. The Brookline fire chief says that it started through spontaneous combustion. A citizen passing saw the smoke and gave the alarm. The fire department was unable to wholly stop the smouldering and while 500 children are pursuing their studies in the three upper floors of the school thirty men are hard at work carrying the shocking coal from the cellar bins, bin by bin, which the fuel was stored in the yard outside. The entire supply of fuel will be destroyed. The gas given forth by the smouldering coal filled the basement, but all the windows were opened and this was soon driven out. The prompt discovery of the fact that the coal was slowly burning doubtless prevented a disastrous explosion, which would have ripped the gas been allowed to collect.

TO DANCE MONDAY.

What promises to be the most successful dancing party given by the members of the Quincy Club, an organization of promising young men of the Dorchester district, will be held in Wheelock Hall, Columbia road, Monday night. There will be a number of novel dancing features.

MISS ROTCH IS TENNIS VICTOR AT LONGWOOD

In a finely played match, in which there was a lot of fast and aggressive tennis, Miss Edith Rotch defeated Miss C. B. Neely of Chicago at the Longwood Cricket Club. The Boston woman now is the western champion in the first set, but won the two succeeding sets.

Miss Evelyn Sears, former national champion, was hard put to it by Mrs. Sumner Hardy of New York. Miss Sears took the first set, but the latter won the second and third. The other three matches saw the defeat of Mrs. Ruth Winsor by Alice Harris Cook, Miss Eleanora Sears was defeated and forced in straight sets by Mrs. Margaret Shaffer. Miss Sears lost the first set, but lost though she rallied somewhat in the second set. Mrs. Shaffer was never in danger. The matches in the doubles were not nearly so closely contested.

BILLINGS CHOSEN TO BAR CHINESE

Collector George R. Billings today assumed charge of all the immigration posts of New England in connection with the movement of the Chinese exclusion law. This is the result of the division of the country into districts to take care of this matter. The appointment of Billings was directed with the knowledge that there is no other medicine, at any price, made [illegible] else in the world, which will effect so thorough and prompt a cure as a fifty-cent treatment of Pape's Diuretic, which any druggist can supply.

Your physician, pharmacist, banker or any mercantile agency will tell you that Pape, Thompson & Pape, of Cincinnati, is a large and responsible medicine concern, thoroughly worthy of your confidence.

Don't be miserable or worried another moment with a lame back or clogged, inactive kidneys or bladder misery. All this goes after you start taking Pape's Diuretic, and in a few days you feel and know that your kidneys, liver and urinary system are healthy, clean and normal, and all danger passed.

"MINISTER LIVES LIE EVERY DAY"

LAWRENCE, Oct. 1.—"I don't believe a minister of the Gospel can read an Easter lily like unto the startling statement made by the Rev. D. H. Carrick, who has just resigned the pastorate of the Lawrence Christian Church and accepted a call as a Unity preacher.

"A preacher's wife cannot even make a success of dressing or doing well or the people will think they are paying their pastor too much. If he practices the truth he will be condemning the lives of many of the congregation and preaching 'the preacher lives a lie every day.'"

ETHEL ROOSEVELT'S BULLDOG IS FOUND

STAMFORD, Ct., Oct. 1.—The collie offered today to Miss Ethel Roosevelt, daughter of the former President, who is in Europe with her mother, the joyful news is that her lost brother, in lack of the collie, has come to the Roosevelts, safe and sound as a dollar, eighteen months after he disappeared from Sagamore Hill. Newspaper descriptions of the lost dog were searched all over the South Shore in vain, and advertised in the London newspapers without result. As a last resort Seaman advertised in a Stamford paper, and Patrick Moylan found the collie.

OUT-OF-ORDER KIDNEYS ACT FINE AND BACKACHE SIMPLY VANISHES.

The most effective and harmless way to cure backache and regulate out-of-order kidneys, or end bladder trouble, is to take several doses of Pape's Diuretic.

You will distinctly feel that your kidneys and urinary organs are being cleansed, healed and vitalized, and all the miserable symptoms, such as backache, headache, nervousness, rheumatic pains and darting pains, inflamed or swollen eyelids, irritability, sleeplessness, or suppressed, painful or frequent urination (especially at night) and other distress, leaving after taking the first few doses.

The moment you suspect any kidney or urinary disorder, or rheumatism, begin using this harmless preparation as directed. A thousand druggists say there is no other medicine, at any price, made [illegible] else in the world, which will effect so thorough and prompt a cure as a fifty-cent treatment of Pape's Diuretic, which any druggist can supply.

HILL TO LAY VICE EXPOSE BEFORE GRAND JURY

ven Thousand W. C. T. U. Members Will Demand of Commissioner O'Meara That Police nforce Law and Wipe Out Notorious Resorts

Ribbon wearers was written and introduced by Dr. Abbott. She was cheered when she read it and it was adopted unanimously. In discussing Boston conditions to-day, Dr. Abbott said:

"Worse Than San Francisco."

"Conditions in Boston involving the purity of young men and the safety of our young women are worse, and have been for a long time, what they should be. It was of a knowledge direct and positive that I introduced the resolution.

"I have told the ladies that it is all very well for them to put themselves upon the back and say that everything is so proper in Boston, and that we are not in the lamentable condition that Chicago and St. Louis and San Francisco are, but the fact is that we are worse off than the cities I have mentioned. And when I say this, I know that I am simply telling the plain, unbiased truth and not hiding or covering things up.

"I have been to San Francisco and have been enabled to ascertain the evils that flourish there, and I have also visited Chicago and St. Louis, and my duties as superintendent of purity and medical temperance required the investigations that I made in those cities.

"Things are worse here in Boston because, expecting better things naturally in Massachusetts, we find that the evils flourish through the indifference of sworn officers of the law to perform the plain duty that their oath of office should impose upon them.

Boston Women Aroused.

"The white slave traffic flourishes in Boston, and the ladies who have been decoying themselves are beginning now to realize the truth. The disclosures of the Watch and Ward Society will bring along an awakening. The white slave evil stalks hand in hand with the evils of the cafes. But the Italian cafes are not the only offenders.

"I lived as a little girl in the North End, and Captain Savage of Division 1 was an intimate friend of our family. We were enabled through this friendship to learn of the real conditions existing around us, and while these conditions were rarely spoken of at our home, yet there were occasions when the conditions, such as they exist to-day, were so flagrant and so notorious that to devise means for correction the matter was discussed in our home.

"I wish we had such a man today as Captain Savage. If we had such a man in Boston, we would not be surrounded to-day by such open and flaunting vice as we have and we would not have the police inaction.

"The women of the W. C. T. U. are thoroughly in earnest in the work which they have begun anew officially, and Police Commissioner O'Meara will hear from us. There are 15,000 White Ribboners in Massachusetts and over 2,000 in Boston. And when 15,000 women get riled in a mass, THAT MAN WILL BE AWARE OF THE FACT, AND IT MAKES NO DIFFERENCE WHETHER THAT MAN IS A POLICE COMMISSIONER OR NOT.

Praise Action of Hill.

"It is gratifying to know that District Attorney Hill is to take up the matter of the white slave traffic and the cafes. The Watch and Ward Society has been doing excellent work, but its scope has been limited. With the district attorney in possession of the evidence of the Watch and Ward Society and possessing the machinery of his office, a tremendous advance is already made toward the suppression of the social evils flourishing in Boston.

"Our resolution will be submitted at once to Police Commissioner O'Meara, and the ladies of the W. C. T. U. will not rest there. They will continue to join forces with the Watch and Ward Society with the presenting evidence of the condition to and with the newspapers whose efforts have been so commendable.

"Secretary Cause of the Watch and Ward Society has told his evidence before District Attorney Hill in written documents. The facts are contained in more than 100 pages of typewritten testimony of the strongest character. Mr. Cause assured District Attorney Hill that he would get witnesses ready to testify to the facts shown in the papers whenever they were needed.

License Board Does Nothing.

The shocking facts of gross immorality that flourish in this city were brought out in the semi-annual report of the Watch and Ward Society. One of the remarkable declarations in the report is that while Mr. Chase had presented the facts to the License Commissioners regarding the violations of the law in connection with some of the notorious cafes, and the commissioners had admitted to him that the law is being violated, yet they had taken no steps to remedy the matter.

This phase of the problem is one that the District Attorney has been asked to inquire into rigidly.

Police Commissioner O'Meara has declared that he is not "at all bothered by the reported 'prevalence of crime flourishing without hindrance or restriction.'"

WHITE RIBBONERS SCORE FOLLCE FOR IGNORING RESORTS

At a meeting of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union the police were severely scored for their lack of co-operation with the Watch and Ward Society in the work of trying to prevent the young of the city being debauched in the evil resorts that are permitted to exist. The resolution on this point, which was offered by Dr. A. N. Abbott, read:

That we deplore the fact that the Police Commissioner and the police department do not more earnestly co-operate with the Watch and Ward Society to suppress the "white slave traffic" and the "social evil."

The resolution was heard enthusiastically. Dr. Abbott bring loudly applauded when she read it.

END $4,000,000 BANK SUSPENSION

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 1.—The Columbian Bank, which suspended with $4,000,000 in deposits, will be turned over to its officers by the State Banking Board on Monday, President W. L. Norton and his associates in the Columbian Bank and Trust Company have offered to put $600,000 in cash into the bank's vaults, and during the suspension the depositors have been cared for by the State guaranty fund.

DRAPER ADDS 157 ACRES TO FARM

MILFORD, Oct. 1.—Final papers in the land deal transferring the farm of Richard Wolahan, consisting of 157 acres, to Governor Eben S. Draper of Hopedale, have been signed and delivered to the Draper is to use his new piece of land for fruit and vegetable farm.

DYING, APPEALS FOR MISSING HUSBAND

The police of Providence, R. I. have been asked to find Wendell Z. Sanford of this city who is believed to be in that locality. "I am sick with tuberculosis," wrote Mrs. Sanford to Police Chief Eaton of Providence. "and the doctor says that under the awful strain I cannot live very long. I do hope and pray that I may see my husband before I breathe my last."

ARBITRARY RULE BY OPPRESSIVE OFFICIALS SCORED BY GAYNOR

The AMERICAN publishes in full to-day the statement dictated by Justice Gaynor last night when he was assured of the Democratic nomination for Mayor of New York.

This statement is such a clear exposition of a condition that exists in Boston as well as New York that every citizen should study it carefully. It is particularly applicable to Police Commissioner O'Meara. The oppression and illegal acts mention by Gaynor prevails to a greater extent here in Boston under O'Meara's police system than in New York under Tammany.

The police department under O'Meara is ruled by a man and not by law. If the statements made by the men and women who are agitating for a police System of Law and Order be true, then there should be some early trials and quick convictions.

If these statements are not true, these men and women are defamers and slanderers of the city of Boston and they should be promptly punished under the law.

Here follows Judge Gaynor's statement:

Officials Are Servants.

"I know the people of New York and they know me. I feel that I do not need to say a word to them. They know that the hour has struck. They know that the slow ripening of time, by the work of the churches and of our schools and colleges of all kinds and of all of our agencies for good, especially upon our rulers in their new age, we have reached the end of an old and the beginning of a new era in the government of this great city, which should be an object lesson for good instead of a bad example to the rest of the nation.

"Unlawful and annoying interference, oppression, lawless force and violence, lawless arrests and imprisonments without any charge of criminal offence, lawless trespasses and ejections, dishonesty and corruption are doomed in the government of the city of New York.

"No free people will submit to being governed in an ignorant, lawless and corrupt manner by those they put in rulership over them—not even until time of decent law has arrived when they are no longer fit for their liberties or for free government.

Blackmail Soon Follows.

"Ours is a government of laws and not of men. It is being turned here and elsewhere into a government of men and not laws. Those put in office are the servants of the community to act under and administer the laws just as they are, not free to do as they please or as themselves up as superior to or better than the laws.

"Any one in office who imagines himself so good and virtuous that he can trifle as he sees fit with or expand to the laws which limit and regulate his powers and conduct, is a dangerous character. The vice of arbitrary power is a greater menace to our blessed system of free government and more to be dreaded than are all the other vices combined. All of the other vices follow in its wake and especially the detestable vices of official extortion and blackmail.

"The good man in office who is tempted to exercise arbitrary power should always remember that he is setting an example which will be followed by his bad successors. Like vices are the slimiest and knockers against the city's morals, fame and financial condition and credit to be now made to shut up.

"There is not a more decorous and orderly city in the world, as every one who has traveled knows, nor one whose bonds and covenants are more safe and sound, and yet a few scheming politicians and sentimentalized persons in and out of office, some of them in that most unhappy of all conditions, namely, not quite mad enough for bedlam and yet not quite sane enough to be at large, have with the air of a few reckless newspapers spread an impression abroad throughout this country and Europe that we are debauched by vice and financially bankrupt.

Complex Legal Machine.

"And I say unto the splendid and unselfish public virtue, intelligence and integrity of the city, without regard to national party names or politics, which I so well know, and which has worked so long without break or failure to destroy and prevent official wrongdoing and to libet government up and make it intelligent and decent—I say unto you all that after the first of January next we fight on the inside and not from the outside as we have so long done.

"The suspicions of many defects and shortcomings but do hope that my life has been sufficiently studious, laborious and experienced, especially in matters of government, to make me hopeful. The government of New York city is a highly complex legal machine with all sorts of necessary limitations and checks, and even the most fit could not enter upon it without study and anxiety.

"It is not like a private business, in which one does as he pleases. It is only one who has ever gone into the office of Mayor and come out from the inside as we have who knows.

"For now those many years, in season and out of season, even with the persistence of a mule eating from the desperation of Carthage, I have taught that national and state politics and party have no place to do with city elections, and from that view I do not now shrink so much as a jot or a tittle.

"I do not have parties, but after city nominations are made by them as national or State ones, no question of high or low tariff or of how to deal with the Philippines, for instance, should influence any one to do as they please or as themselves vote.

"National men and measures for national elections; State men and measures for State elections; city men and measures for city elections."

GERMANY LAUNCHES NEW DREADNAUGHT

BERLIN, Oct. 1.—Germany's second superdreadnaught, hitherto known as the Ersatz Oldenburg, was launched at Wilhelmshoven and was christened Ost Friesland. She is a sister ship of the Helgoland, which was launched on October 30, and, so far as is allowed to be known, she seems to be the equal of Great Britain's Neptune, launched yesterday.

SPLENDID FICTION will be given free in the literary supplement of the SUNDAY AMERICAN.

INSTITUTE FOR BREADWINNERS

The Breadwinners' Institute will begin its fourth year the middle of this month, and it occupies a unique place in the educational field. It was founded by the late Professor Frank Parsons, who will always be revered as the most philanthropic of educators.

The institute is in the Civic Service House in the North End, and is a place where self-supporting men and women can command an education. Those who wish to register for this year can do so now. The faculty is a picked corps of its members are instructors at Harvard and at the Emerson College of Oratory. The lessons and lectures meet the practical needs of the students who attend the institute, and there is a social bond between them and the faculty which is one of the chief charms of attending the classes. A library and reading and study rooms are connected with the institute.

HEAD OF MICHIGAN UNIVERSITY IS OUT

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Oct. 1.—Dr. James B. Angell to-day retires from the presidency of the University of Michigan, an office he has filled for thirty-eight years, except for two periods when he was away on leave of absence filling the posts of U. S. Minister to China and U. S. Minister to Turkey.

TRAINING SHIP OFF FOR MADEIRA

The Commissioners of the Massachusetts Nautical Training School have received a cablegram from Commander William P. Low, U. S. N., announcing the departure of the U. S. S. Ranger from Gibraltar for Madeira.

BOY, 7, SAVES BABY BROTHER

ORANGE, Oct. 1.—Russell Bacon, a seven-year-old lad, plunged into a brook near his home and rescued his little brother Robert, aged five, from drowning.

Both boys were playing on the banks of the stream near their home. No. 23 school street, when Robert lost his balance and fell into the water. He had struck a sharp stone and his leg there stunned. Russell, realizing his brother's peril, plunged in and succeeded in dragging him ashore. The boys are the sons of Homer S. Bacon, a prominent man of the town.

THIS DEVELOPS BUST, MAKES ARMS AND NECK ROUND

"If your bust lacks development or firmness you can rely on both being developed and firmness from the persistent use of the following: Obtain from the drug gist two ounces of glycerine and one ounce tincture cadomene compound (not cardamon), mix and let stand several hours; then add a pint of witch hazel and three ounces of rosewater. Shake well and bathe the parts well and lost, rubbing and massaging until it is completely absorbed then wash the parts treated with very hot water and soap and dry thoroughly. Apply the treatment morning and night regularly for several weeks or months as the case may require, and the most exquisite dresses and rounding out of hollow places will reward you.

Sick Headache and Indigestion

The Former Is Very Frequently Caused by the Other.

The pneumo-gastric nerve connects the stomach region directly with the brain, and when the stomach is out of order the head is almost certain to be affected through reflex or sympathetic nervous irritation.

The headache of dyspepsia and indigestion is of every variety from the dullest and most defined to the most acute pain. Sometimes the whole mass of the brain seems racked with anguish; at others, the ache is confined to the back or front part of the head. The first form is usually of a confused character, and is often accompanied by dimness of vision and a mild vertigo, or so-called "rush of blood to the head." The victims of this symptom complain of a "swimming" or "lightness" in the head, and dizziness, or a sensation of motion while the body is still, and specks or flashes of light before the eyes.

Persons subject to indigestion and other forms of stomach trouble are very frequent sufferers from headache, and in numerous cases a sick headache is the only noticeable symptom of indigestion present; in others, there are stomach manifestations as well.

The majority of people regard this headache as a separate disease, instead of a symptom of stomach-disease, which it usually is; and they attempt to treat it separately, and make the mistake of endeavoring to obtain relief through the use of headache powders, tablets, pills and seltzers, the use of which is extremely dangerous, as many of them contain such powerful depressent drugs as acetanilid, phenacetine, antipyrine, caffeine, etc., which depress the heart, brain and nerve centers, and lower arterial pressure; and many a person with a weak heart has become dangerously ill shortly after taking one of these headache remedies. They also interfere with the digestive processes and actually make the dyspepsia worse than before.

In order to get rid of the headache of indigestion—and most headaches are caused by stomach trouble—one should endeavor to reach and remove the cause, and the headache effect will soon be relieved.

STUART'S DYSPEPSIA TABLETS do not cure the symptoms; they cure the cause of the headache, which permanently removes the symptoms. They digest every atom of food in the stomach, cure all forms of stomach trouble, and the headache, and every other disagreeable symptom and untoward effect is quickly gotten rid of.

Don't make the mistake of trying to cure your dyspeptic or nervous headache through the use of headache powders, tablets, etc. Use common sense, good judgment and one or two of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, and you will be agreeably surprised at the rapidity with which the headache will be relieved and cured simultaneously with the relief and cure of the stomach disturbance.

Purchase a package from your druggist today for 50 cents, and send us your name and address, and we will forward you a trial package free. Address F. A. Stuart Co., 150 Stuart Building, Marshall, Mich.

WRIGHT AFTER RECORD; PLANS 3 HOUR FLIGHT

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—Wilbur Wright is prepared today for the most remarkable airship flight in history. He intends to break all world's records by remaining in the air for three hours. In order to do this, he will carry twelve gallons of gasoline. He will also wear a life preserver to keep him afloat if the aeroplane should fall into the bay or the Hudson river.

Glenn H. Curtiss is camping out on Governor's Island today, awaiting the first lull in the wind so that he can wheel out his machine and make a flight.

Curtiss has only today and Saturday in which to complete his contract to fly from Governor's Island around Grant's Tomb and return. He is determined to make a flight at the first opportunity, and in order to be entirely prepared when the wind abates, is remaining in his camp near the Hudson-Fulton aerodrome.

He has $5,000, possibly $5,000, at stake, and therefore will not overlook the first opportunity to carry out his contract. He is prepared to take desperate chances, if necessary.

He slept last night in his aero shed, in a temporary cot by the side of his aeroplane. He was awake at an early hour.

SANE 4TH EXHIBIT AT THE 1915 FAIR

The "Sane Fourth" Committee, brought together last June to try to show how Boston can celebrate the "Spectacular holidays" by better modern methods, is arranging a display in the "1915" Boston Exposition, which will open November 1 in the old Art Museum. The exhibit will show the effects of the usual forms of celebrating the Fourth of July, compared with the effects of a quieter but equally enjoyable form, such as has been successfully carried out in Springfield, Mass., and Cleveland, O. Other features will show the dangers from the use of blank cartridges, fire crackers and other explosives.

Nothing succeeds like circulation. The AMERICAN has quantity and quality.

TRACTION MEN TRAVEL IN STYLE

Seventy-nine members and guests of the Massachusetts Street Railway Association are now well on their way on a trip of 3,737 miles, one of the most finely equipped trains that ever started out over the Boston & Maine railroad. The return to Boston will not be made until Nov. 6, and the trip which will include twenty-five states, will cost about $40,000.

TUNNEL HEROINE WEDS.

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—Miss Sarah D. Scott, who showed great bravery in the tunnel disaster of 1903, in which several New Rochelle persons were killed, is the bride of Harry A. Briggs, son of Elbert L. Briggs of No. 1 Edgewood park, New Rochelle. The ceremony took place in Christ Church, Pelham Manor, the Rev. Ja F. Tenney officiating.

THE AEROPLANE FACE!

It's here at last—Note the resemblance of features of Wilbur Wright and Glenn H. Curtiss, from photographs by a Boston American photographer during their marvelous flights in New York.

Wilbur Wright, the smooth-faced aviator, on the left, and Glenn H. Curtiss, his rival, whose aeroplane rights Wright is attacking in court for alleged patent infringement.

HILL STUMPING CAMPAIGN IS ON

District Attorney Hill, nominated by Republicans for election to his present office, has begun his speaking campaign. He addressed the delegates of the Twenty-seventh Republican representative convention at a banquet and told them that he would take the stump in the interests of the party, but personally would prefer to keep off it. He said:

"I want voters to know the tremendous importance of the office of district attorney. It should be filled by a man who is not only not a good lawyer but something of a fighter. Lying, bulldozing and flattery are attempted on the district attorney in turn almost every day, and it takes a man with a steady head to sit in the position.

"I have tried to administer the duties of my office honestly and to the best of my ability. I am not mixed up politically, financially or socially in any way that hampers me in doing my duty in that office. If I am elected I propose to go on just as I have been going.

"It makes no difference what party the man who fills the office of district attorney may belong to, so long as he does his work faithfully and well. But it does make a difference if he is a man who is mixed up with people who commit crime or are likely to commit crime."

CUSTOMS RECEIPTS BEAT ALL RECORDS

Customs dues continue to pile up at the Boston Custom House, despite the downward revision in the tariff schedules. Last week the receipts amounted to $581,674.64. The receipts for the same week last year were $120,754.84 less. The receipts from January 1 amounted to $22,982,280.80, which is an increase of $6,521,570.63 over the receipts for the same time last year.

COOK PICTURES AT FAIR.

One of the features par excellence at the great Food Fair and Home Furnishing Exposition now being held in Mechanics' Building is a fine collection of moving pictures, showing Dr. Frederick Cook's triumphant reception at Copenhagen when the discoverer of the North Pole visited Denmark. Marco Vessella and his magnificent band are still proving the great-est attraction to the fair, and the two daily concerts are largely attended.

KILLS HIMSELF TO SEE SPIRITS

EVANSVILLE, Ind., Oct. 1.—A seeker in spiritualism and being unable to "see the spirit face to face," as he and his friends so longed to do, Henry Ed-man, aged fifty-three years, a well-to-do retired editor, committed suicide at his home here today by shooting himself in the head.

FAVOR PENSION FOR CITY MEN

That an old age pension system is necessary to the solution of the expense problem of several city departments was the declaration of Street Superintendent Guy C. Emerson before the State commission to consider an old age pension law. He said that Boston pays $300,000 a year in wages to old men in the Street Department alone.

"The Street Department of the City of Boston is one of the largest, if not the largest, charitable organization in the city," said Mr. Emerson. "There are at present 2,800 men on its payroll. Of this number at least 200 are absolutely inefficient. More than that, the cost of old men in the department months well up into the hundreds of thousands of dollars. It is $300,000 a year in the Street Department alone."

In giving the reason for so many aged employes Mr. Emerson said: "You ask why I do not discharge a man who I know is unfit for work required in my department—an old man, who has served the city faithfully over a long term of years and who, perhaps, has succeeded in raising a family, but who is now of evidently inefficient? I tell you unhesitatingly that I would if in my heart, and no ordinary man could find it in his heart, to say to such a man, 'You must quit!'

"I have a man under me who is getting $2.25 a day. That man is not doing work worth half that amount, but I say, if I discharge this man it means that he and his family will go on the city's care. That would mean more than $2.25 a day, and so it is cheaper to keep him at work."

CLAIMED POWER TO HEAL; IS ARRESTED

William Burnett, 60 years old and colored, is under arrest at Jersey City, N. J., by request of the Boston police, on the charge of having obtained money by false pretending that he had power to heal. Burnett had an office on Shawmut avenue, and his clients were among the poor and ignorant colored people. He charged according to the means of each client. When complaint was made two weeks ago he suddenly left the city, but was traced to New Jersey.

YERKES, NEAR DEATH, FOUGHT POISON PLOT

CHICAGO, Oct. 1.—That Charles T. Yerkes, Chicago's traction king, at the time of his death labored under the delusion that his servants were conspiring to poison him, will be the argument advanced when the latest chapter in the million dollar fight over his estate comes to a court hearing.

Suspicion directed at members of his immediate household is said to have been so acute that he compelled the butler and frequently the housemaid, to partake of food set for him, while he drank only what was unbottled or prepared before him.

Before Judge Cuming, in Probate Court, Walter W. Ross, representing Louis S. Wessler, executor of the Yerkes estate, filed a new codicil which sets to strike from his will a bequest of $15,000 to six of his servants. It is dated London, August 19, 1905. Mr. Yerkes died in New York the following December. Reference is made to the fact that he bequeathed $5,000 to Arfold Held, his chauffeur, and $2,000 to other servants.

William Mannhardt, a Chicago attorney, has been retained to fight the validity of the codicil and uphold Held's claim to $5,000. Held and the other servants are content upon to establish proof of Mr. Yerkes's poison delusion.

"Just prior to the death of Mr. Yerkes he became obsessed with the idea that his servants were trying to kill him with poison," said Mr. Mannhardt today.

"Why this codicil has been so long withheld until the appeared as base in Cuba, cause Tuesday, George Sunday son of "Billy" Sunday, the evangelist, was taken to Lake Forest by his mother Wednesday night and entered as a student at the Lake Forest University. "I run away," said Sunday today, "because the upper classmen hazed me too much. Eleven other boys who were first year men, went with me."

BILLY SUNDAY'S SON FLEES FROM HAZERS

CHICAGO, Oct. 1.—After running away from Culver Military Academy and being chased by Pinkerton detectives, whom he eluded until he appeared as base in Cuba, cause Tuesday, George Sunday son of "Billy" Sunday, the evangelist, was taken to Lake Forest by his mother Wednesday night and entered as a student at the Lake Forest University. "I run away," said Sunday today, "because the upper classmen hazed me too much. Eleven other boys who were first year men, went with me."

NEW TECH TEACHER.

Technology has secured the services of W. E. Wickenden, a former senior manager of the University of Wisconsin, to take the place made vacant by the resignation of Associate Professor George Swain, who has left the Institute to electrical engineering department to accept the same course at the University of Kansas.

DORCHESTER WOMAN GETS $100,000 GIFT

Through the death of her aunt, Mrs. Julia Wallace of Brooklyn, who left an estate of $1,000,000, Mrs. Juliet Wallace Murray of No. 571 Washington street, Dorchester, wife of Theodore R. Murray, a clerk in the Boston postoffice, inherits $100,000. Mrs. Murray, who is a sister by adoption of Mrs. S. H. Sibley, wife of Dr. Sibley of Dorchester, has lived with the Sibleys for the past seven years, or ever since she and Mr. Murray separated.

The fact that Mrs. Murray has inherited a fortune became known in Dorchester, where she is prominent as a club woman, for the first time today. Mrs. Murray's aunt died last week in Brooklyn, and the news attended the funeral last Saturday, the bank-note company's cable not to receive congratulations of her friends.

Mrs. Murray is a member of the Dorchester Women's Club and the Ladies' Dorchester Club. When the Murrays separated Mrs. Murray retained the custody of her two children, both pupils in the Dorchester High School.

AFFINITY EARLE MAKES SECRET VISIT TO HOME OF BOSTON SOUL MATE

CHICAGO, Oct. 1.—Frederick Phinney (Affinity) Earle is supposed to be a visitor at Palos Park, the home of Miss Gertrude Buell Dunn, formerly of Boston, partner in his most recent soul match episode. Earle himself isn't visible to callers, but his three large trunks and a hamper checked from New York were got off at the suburban depot and were taken in charge of O. J. Reese, father-in-law of Miss Dunn's brother.

Miss Dunn refused to-day to deny that Earle was in Palos Park and had met her since his departure from New York Sunday. Miss Dunn admitted that the baggage was that of the artist.

She reviewed the various scandals connected with her name since she met Earle, commenting on each story, but refused to deny any particular of her alleged connections with him.

It was rumored about the village to-day that Earle had been seen at the Dunn home shortly after the arrival of his baggage, but he quickly sought secrecy.

Forced to Silence, Says Girl.

His baggage consisted of one immense box trunk, two smaller ones and a steamer hamper. The two large trunks arrived from New York by express and were consigned by Earle. The smaller one and the hamper were checked as ordinary baggage on a ticket from New York to Chicago.

"I did not see anyone come with the baggage," said H. P. Coward, the station agent, "but there was a ticket from New York, as they were so checked."

"The two which came by express were billed from New York by Earle. I cannot say a word one way or another of this affair," said Miss Dunn.

"I want to escape publicity if possible. I know the world thinks that I am a fool for not coming out and denying these charges against me. It might clear things, but circumstances force me to silence against my will."

Miss Dunn plucked at the flowers along the path from the station and did not raise her face from the ground.

Then she threw back her head and exclaimed:

Doesn't Call for Gossip.

"I do not care what people think. It is none of their business what I do or what Mr. Earle does or what we do. I positively refuse to affirm or deny any of the multitude of stories they have circulated about me.

"Let the world think what it may. Some day I will talk and you may be sure the world will listen. What you want me to say is far from what I will say some day, but it will be interesting, as I will lay bare my whole life. Then they may judge."

"Do you mean by that you and Mr. Earle are solving a new philosophy of life which will explain your relations and be accepted by the world in general?"

"I do not know what I mean. Yes, I mean that there are many things in my life which are right, but which could not be explained. Let's not talk any more about it."

It was learned that Miss Dunn's mother is expected Monday from California and will meet her son and daughter at Palos Park. It is rumored that she will meet Earle and Miss Dunn at that time and that they will try to win the consent of her relatives to the plan of platonic friendship and ideal partnership and to have been evolved by them.

$10,000,000 IN NEW STEEL PLANT

PITTSBURG, Oct. 1.—The Carnegie Steel Company has decided on improvements and new mills in the vicinity of Youngstown, O., to cost about $10,000,000. To-day 400 acres of land, near Girard, O., were purchased. The company intends to make the Ohio mills fully as important as those of Homestead, Braddock or Duquesne. The decision to spend this $10,000,000 in Ohio comes as a blow to Pittsburg, since it had been hoped this money would be expended in the Pittsburg district.

BOY STUDENT HAZED WITH CLUBS MAY DIE

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Oct. 1.—As the result of a hazing by four schoolmates, Albert Whitticker of River Park, east of South Bend, is in a serious condition.

The boy, who is eleven years old, was stripped of his clothing, tied to a tree and so terribly beaten with clubs that he may die. When the lazers realized what they had done they ran for the woods in fear, but later one of the boys returned and released the victim. Young Whitticker says he refused to keep off forbidden "hunting ground," and was punished.

MUSEUM TAX GRAFT CHARGE MADE TO HILL

District Attorney Hill was to-day called upon to investigate evidence concerning the sale of the Art Museum property in Copley square to the Copley Square Trust. It is officially charged that by the method by which the property was sold in 1902 the payment of more than $150,000 in taxes was evaded.

The museum purchase was brought to the attention of District Attorney Hill as the result of an order adopted by the Common Council and offered by Councilman Frank A. Goodwin of East Boston. This order directs the Board of Assessors, through Major Hilliard, to turn over to the District Attorney information in its possession, which, together with the records from the Suffolk Registry of Deeds, should be presented immediately to the Grand Jury.

Councilman Goodwin's order is aimed at several of the wealthiest and most prominent residents of this State. The East Boston man declared indictments should be asked for on allegations of criminal conspiracy to defraud the city out of taxes.

He produced copies of documents to show that, instead of a provisional sale as claimed by some of those interested, an absolute sale of the property was made in 1902 and concealed until June of this year.

As the building was not taxable under the law as long as it was owned by the Art Museum people, Councilman Goodwin claimed that the alleged concealment of the sale netted the Copley Trust $150,000, which, he charged, should have been paid to the city in taxes.

HEAD OF TAILORS' UNION AIDS LOCAL

Out sixteen weeks fighting the open-shop order of the local employers' association, the striking members of the Ladies' Tailors and Dressmakers' Union of this city received notice from New York that A. Rosenberg, general president of the national organization would be in Boston to-day to help them carry their strike to a successful conclusion.

RICH BEAUTY IN LOVE SUIT FLEES PALACE

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—The mystery of Antoinette Gazzam, the millionaire daughter of former State Senator Joseph Gazzam, was deepened to-day, when it became known that she had left her magnificent mansion at Cornwall on the Hudson early in August, without letting her household know her destination.

She departed soon after being served with papers in the suit brought by Mrs. Marshall Clarke, a Chicago "astrologer's" wife, who alleges that Miss Gazzam alienated her husband's affections.

The friends of the young woman are cautiously expressing the belief that she is being victimized by persons seeking to gain possession of the fortune, which amounted to $2,000,000 when her mother died.

Although the rumor that she was being held a prisoner in her own mansion is no longer credited, her friends are inclined to think the report true in effect, not in detail.

They say she is deeply interested in astrology and that her eccentric actions are due to her belief in portents of the stars.

Information reached the AMERICAN to the effect that $1,250,000 worth of her securities were withdrawn from a certain bank a few days ago. Her relatives regard this as peculiar, in view of the fact that the girl has little business ability and would hardly know what to do with such securities if she had them in her possession.

The marble mansion, standing lonely and majestic above the Hudson, looked cold and deserted. The shades are down and there is no sign of life about the place, but a colored maid answered the bell at last.

"I don't know where Miss Gazzam is," she said. "She went away several weeks ago."

AUTO WRECKED; JOY RIDERS ARE SPILLED

Three occupants of a wrecked automobile, in which, unknown to its owner, four young men were making a joy ride, are held by the Jamaica Plain police, and the fourth is being sought. The explosion of the gasoline tank started a fire which damaged the car to the extent of $800, and a polling booth on Lamartine street was badly damaged when the car crashed into it. The men under arrest are the chauffeur, Henry A. Bacon of No. 774A Dudley street, Walter R. J. Cahill of No. 19 Greenwood avenue, Jamaica Plain, and Joseph F. Conlon of No. 59 Mansfield street. The car, which was speeding, skidded on a corner, and struck the polling booth. It is the property of Neil McNeil of No. 59 Stanley street, Dorchester.

DEER SEASON IS OPENED IN MAINE

AUGUSTA, Me., Oct. 1.—With the woods full of deer, the shooting season in Maine opened to-day. Deer are more numerous than is a long time and many moose are reported.

The heavy rains have made better hunting than usual in the early part of the season, as the high water has driven the big bucks out of the swamps onto the ridges and other high lands.

There have been no changes in the laws relating to big game since last season. It is expected that about 2,000 non-residents will pay the license fee of $15 to shoot big game in Maine this year.

CHICAGO MAN AFTER POLICE FOR ARREST

Habeas corpus proceedings have been brought against the police department by the attorney for Edward Gardner of Chicago, who was arrested on suspicion of being a pickpocket and was held by Deputy Superintendent Watts on the charge of being wanted in Akron, O., for thefts amounting to about $5,000 two years ago.

Gardner's attorney alleges that the police had no right to hold him more than twenty-four hours on suspicion instead of two days. In the City Police Court Gardner was held in $2,000 by Judge Burke for trial October 7.

SUMMER RESORT BURNS.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 1.—Fire to-day destroyed about a third of the buildings at River View, an amusement resort of large size just east of this city. The damage is from $75,000 to $100,000.

7TH INCENDIARY FIRE IN DISTRICT

The seventh incendiary fire in South Boston tenements in four months is believed by the police to have been started by bags looking for the excitement of a fire department dash. The building is at No. 6 West First street, and near it are three coal wharves and a dozen factories. The blaze was discovered by a policeman in time to prevent the destruction of the building.

WENT TO SCHOOL WITH "SLANT ON"

GLOUCESTER, Oct. 1.—Charles Olsen, a twelve-year-old pupil at the Hanson School, created a sensation by reporting at school, with a well-defined "slant on," which he had secured from wine stolen at his home. When the boy was taken home his mother announced that the boy had evidently stolen a bottle of wine that had been in the house. The boy stoutly declared that he had been given the wine by his mother. He was detained at the station until he had become sober.

ALONZO D. MORAN FOR DISTRICT ATTORNEY

All doubts as to the likelihood of the presence in the coming district attorney fight of an independent candidate were dissipated when Alonzo D. Moran, brother of the late District Attorney John B. Moran, filed nomination papers with the election commissioners.

The papers contained a great many more names than are required by law. They will be later filed at the State House.

BOSTON ELEVATED

Prevention of Accidents to Children

The Company has sent the following letter to the School Committees of Arlington, Boston, Belmont, Brookline, Cambridge, Chelsea, Everett, Medford, Malden, Newton, Somerville and Watertown, and also to the Supervisor of Parochial Schools. Action has been or is about to be taken by all of them in co-operation with the Company. The Company desires, also, the co-operation of parents and others having charge of children. It is believed that much injury may be avoided by such action.

To the School Committee of the Town or City of

The Boston Elevated Railway Company wishes to call your attention to its desire to prevent as far as possible injuries to children resulting from the operation of its cars in and around ——— and if possible to enlist your active co-operation to this end. In spite of every reasonable precaution taken by the company and the generally careful operation of the cars by its employes, distressing accidents happen more often than we believe they would, if the children were carefully instructed by those in authority concerning the danger of careless playing in the streets and of stealing rides on the cars.

The fact that thus far in the experience of the Company the courts have not in a single instance held the motorman responsible for the death of a child would seem to justify one in assuming that greater care on the part of the injured would result in lessening the number of such accidents.

The Company, therefore, respectfully suggests and believes that such warning to the children attending the schools of ——— as you may see fit to have given will tend to diminish these accidents and the sufferings and grief resulting therefrom.

If agreeable to you will you kindly have the matter brought before the teachers and scholars in such form as you deem best?

Very respectfully,

Boston Elevated Railway Co.

DOCTORS QUIT HOSPITAL UPON BOARD'S DEFI

MANCHESTER, N. H., Oct. 1.—It developed to-day that the eighteen physicians, comprising the entire staff of the Elliot Hospital, who were reported to have voluntarily resigned, were requested to resign by the trustees.

That the eighteen men signed a paper in which they resigned because of the retention of Miss Augusta C. Robertson, matron of the institution, is admitted. It is also stated that their action came after they had complained of the matron to the trustees and were told they might resign if they found themselves unable to get along harmoniously with her.

To-day Dr. George C. Wilkins, the only man who did not resign, is in charge of the hospital. Doctors from other hospitals in the city have volunteered their assistance and the affairs of the institution are uninterrupted.

FLINT TOO POOR FOR U. S. SENATE

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Oct. 1.—U. S. Senator Frank P. Flint of California is expected to announce soon that he will not be a candidate for re-election to the Senate. Senator Flint is said to have repeatedly declared that he could not afford the expense connected with the honor of representing California in the upper House of Congress, and would be compelled to return to his law practice in Los Angeles.

graphs introduced by the respondent yesterday as those of James Ruseau. She then said that she saw him for the first time when she was twelve years old. The last time she saw him was one week ago when she was looking through the doors of the courtroom.

"I was with the brother of the claimant," said Mrs. Demo. "He and I stood at the door and saw the claimant sitting at the table with his lawyer. It was James D. Ruseau.

"Is that brother in the court room?" Mrs. Demo was asked. "Yes, he is, he is over there pointing to a man in the witness box. "That is William C. Ruseau and he is the brother of the claimant in this case."

Tells of Marriage.

William C. Ruseau stood up beside his chair and the people in the court room gazed curiously at him. Many turned and searched the room for the claimant, Daniel Blake Russell, but he was not in the room. Continuing her testimony, Mrs. Demo said:

"The man I saw sitting beside Mr. Simpson in this courtroom is the same man I knew years ago as James Ruseau. He was married in the Catholic church in Messina, in 1884. The Rev. P. J. Kelley performed the ceremony, and as I knew Mr. Ruseau very well I stood up with him at the wedding.

"He married Jessie Carbino. I knew her slightly before the marriage took place. At that time both of them were working on the same farm, which was owned by Myron Russell, whose wife's name was Joanna Russell. Tant was in Louisville, N. Y.

"The couple lived together for about a year. Then Ruseau went away. I did not see him again until last week."

WHEN IS A STREET NOT A CITY STREET?

Records are to be brought into the city police court to-day to see whether or not Fulton street, between Richmond and Cross streets, in the North End, has ever been formally accepted by the city. Albert Meeff, a produce merchant located at No. 63 Fulton street, on trial for allowing refuse barrels to stand on the sidewalk, contends that that portion has never been accepted by the city as a public street.

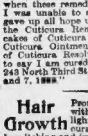
ECZEMA VICTIM GAVE UP HOPE

After Suffering a Year with Raw, Watery Humor on Hands and Face —Prescriptions Did Not Do a Bit of Good—Scratched Till Blood Came and Had to Quit Work.

COMPLETELY CURED BY CUTICURA REMEDIES



"I suffered with eczema for one year and had two of the best doctors in town, but their medicine did not help me. First of all there were small white pimples on my left hand and I had to scratch until the blood came. Then they would puff up and water would run out. Wherever this water would run there would be more pimples until my whole left hand was a mass of sores. Then my other hand became affected and they were like a place of raw meat. They came on my face, neck and under my right arm so that I was unable to raise my arm for two weeks. It became so bad that I was obliged to give up work. "About four months ago I started to doctor and the doctor told me it was eczema. So he told me to get ——— ointment and soap. I used them for a month and they didn't do me one bit of good so I tried another doctor. He gave me three different kinds of medicines, but I was very much put out when these remedies did not help me. I was unable to sleep at night and I gave up all hope until I decided to try the Cuticura Remedies. I used two cakes of Cuticura Soap, two boxes of Cuticura Ointment and three bottles of Cuticura Resolvent and I am glad to say I am cured. CLARICE VANCE GAVE GEMS TO CLEVER FRAUD

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—Clarice Vance, the vaudeville singer, and Rose Gumbiel, her husband and manager, landed to an absolute stranger in Fifth avenue at Sixteenth street last night two diamond sunbursts valued at $2,000 belonging to Miss Vance, believing him a customs inspector who was to appraise them for duty.

Miss Vance arrived from England on the Mauretania.

After settling with Uncle Sam Miss Vance got into her husband's automobile and started uptown with him to the Knickerbocker Hotel, where they were to dine. At Sixteenth street the confidence man in a taxicab overtook them and a ruse to fit told Mr. Gumbiel's chauffeur to stop.

"The lady has made a mistake in declaring her jewelry," said the taxicab passenger, getting out and displaying a customs inspector's badge. He also wore the regulation inspector's cap.

"Why, I declared everything!" exclaimed Miss Vance.

"Not according to our list!" said the man. "There are two diamond sunbursts unaccounted for."

After an argument Miss Vance fished the two sunbursts out of her jewel bag and handed them over, after getting the inspector's name. He spelled it for them. It was Batson, Batson. Later she learned that there was no inspector named Batson, and that there had been no question about Miss Vance's sunbursts.

COOK AND HARRY WHITNEY MEET IN BOSTON [illegible] NIGHT—

Explorer Lectures To-night; Man He Depends on for Proofs Due at Same Time.

Robert E. Peary almost came face to face in the Grand Central Station. Just as Cook was walking through the station for his train Peary's train reached New York from Portland, Me. The two Arctic heroes did not catch a glimpse of each other, however.

Has Proof of McKinley Climb.

In an exclusive interview with a reporter of the AMERICAN on the train that brought Cook to Boston he declared that he had recorded Mount McKinley and that it could be easily proven by two men who went with him to the summit and by others who were on the mountain at the time.

The doubt cast on the Mt. McKinley ascent by opponents of Dr. Cook also raised doubt on the statement that he reached the Pole and has been the chief ammunition of those supporting the Peary claim of the Pole controversy.

Dr. Cook explained that doubt had probably been cast upon his Mt. McKinley feat because the men who were with him had not been paid while he was up in the region of the North Pole, as he and explicitly directed that they should be. The men have now been paid and he says if they are found they will corroborate his story of climbing the mountain.

The explorer also explained that he left his North Pole flag with Whitney at the sportsman's earliest request.

Guide to Back His Story.

When the report was circulated in Dr. Cook that Professor Ralph S. Tarr of Cornell had reported that Ed Barrill, who accompanied Dr. Cook on the Mt. McKinley expedition, had declared the climb a joke, Cook said:

"Ed Barrill is coming to New York soon, and then he says he will tell what he knows about his absence of Mt. McKinley. There were seven men in my party, so that the story that only two men made the climb and on the mountain is absurd. The men were scattered on the mountain at the time of my ascent and on the last dash for the top Barrill and Parker were with me.

"We carried with us on that trip all of the scientific instruments necessary to make observations and corroborate our altitude. I think that the various stories which came out recently that Barrill had accompanied me from the fact that he was also with me when we made the attempt to climb the North. I left instructions with a certain person to pay the men and he failed to do it. The men have been paid now, and I believe that their testimony, if they were seen and interviewed, would corroborate what I have said about going to the top of the mountain."

Why He Left Polar Flag.

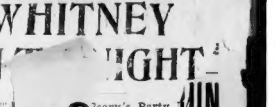
Referring to his experience with Harry Whitney, Cook said:

"I can only reiterate what I have said frequently that I left with Whitney a duplicate of my records among the instruments that were consigned to his care. It is possible that he did not know the records were there, as they were locked in a small wooden box which was among other boxes in the lot.

"Why did you leave your North Pole flag with Whitney?" I asked Dr. Cook. "The flag was Whitney's Commander Peary says he sewed his flag inside its shirt as that was the spot in the bottom of the Polar Sea the flag would go with him."

"I left the flag with Whitney because

Peary's Party Attack on Rival's Claims.



Keeping Facts from Peary.

Peary said that the reason he did not get word from Cook that he had reached the pole signals because he wanted to make announcement to the world in his own way. He further said that he had reported and there was no reason why he should have done so a second time.

As Dr. Cook took the truth at New York he refused himself in his statement to mind the job of completing his book and magazine story. He was to go on again Boston, with the exception of a night in New York, even having his dressed privately.

NEVER MIND ME, I'LL GET THIS TO SERGE ON LOUISE WELLES

DOVES HAVE A DAY OF REST

After finally winning a game, as doped by the AMERICAN'S wireless yesterday, Manager Harry Smith and his Doves have to-day for resting, which all hope means that to-morrow they may be able to repeat the trick.

From all reports, the Boston boys behaved like the real article in the final game with the St. Louis Cardinals, they getting after Raleigh for ten and a total of eleven hits, while Mattern was that clever that the Cardinals were only able to connect for five hits, one a two-bagger.

But it is due to Roy Thomas that a lot of the victory is due. He stepped to the plate five times and smashed the ball in the eye for three and a total of four bingles. Not content with this, he made a sterling throw in the ninth that caught his man and settled the game.

METS TO HAVE A HORSE SHOW

The horse show to be held at the Charles River Speedway October 15 promises to be the most successful one-day show ever held in the vicinity of Boston. The committee in charge of the affair, which is to be held under the auspices of the Metropolitan Driving Club of Boston, has been doing a lot of handling, and already many entries have been promised.

It will probably be the first instance where each of the winners will be awarded a silver cup. These trophies, twenty in number, have been donated by prominent business firms and individuals.

In speaking of the show, Samuel J. Shaw, one of the committee, said that he believed the event would be so successful that it would lead up to the renewal in this city of a horse show up to the standard of those formerly held at Mechanics Building.

YOUNG CORBETT AGAIN ASPIRES

The appearance of Young Corbett in the Armory Club ring next Tuesday against the local favorite, Dave Deshler of Chinbridge, is sure to attract to the club house many of the members who knew the Denver lad when the halo of success was on his brow.

Corbett surely deserves every encouragement for trying so hard to get back into the leadership class. All his contemporary boxers have passed, and alone he still stands struggling with that never-say-die spirit which won him the championship.

There will be plenty of action in the meeting between Corbett and Deshler. Both lads like to mix matters up, and that is what pleases the Armory Club members. It is expected to be one rapid fire affair from start to finish, and not a few believe that the ring generalship and craft of Corbett will bring him home a winner.

DICK NELSON WINS FROM BOB WILSON

LAWRENCE, Oct. 1.—Dick Nelson of New York was given the decision over Bobby Wilson of Canada at the end of their twelve-round bout at the Unity Club. Nelson earned the decision, being the aggressor and scoring more effective blows in every round. Wilson seemed to be in a daze throughout and was on the defensive. In the last round he surprised all by getting the jump on Nelson and almost putting him out. The fight ended in a battle of blows.

ALL FIXED FOR SERIES OF GIANTS AND RED SOX

CINCINNATI, Oct. 1.—The arrangements for the post season series between the New York National League and the Boston American League clubs have been announced by the National Commission and the schedule is as follows:

Friday, October 8—At New York.
Saturday, October 9—At New York.
Monday, October 11—At Boston.
Tuesday, October 12—At Boston.
Wednesday, October 13—At New York.
Thursday, October 14—At Boston.

The umpires selected are Charles Rigler and T. H. Connolly, with Robert Emslie and J. J. Egan as sub-umpires.

The official scorers selected are T. H. Murnane of Boston and J. B. Foster of New York.

The following players are declared eligible to participate in the games, and none others:

Boston Americans—Arellanes, Cicotte, Carrigan, Collins, Donohue, Frisch, Gardner, Hall, Karger, Lord, Mathews, Madden, McConnell, Hooper, Nourse, Niles, Pape, Stahl, Speaker, Thomey, Wagner, Wood and Wolter.

New York Nationals—Ames, Bridwell, Crandell, Devlin, Devore, Doyle, Fletcher, Herzog, Lathem, McCormick, Meinert, Marquard, Merkle, Mathewson, Meyers, Murray, Wiltam, Raymond, Schlei, Seymour, Shafer, Snodgrass, Tenney, Wehmer, Wilson and Wiltse.

The prices of admission to be charged are to be the same as those charged by each club on its respective grounds during the regular championship season.

The public is cautioned against paying any higher prices than those fixed in this bulletin and every effort will be made on the part of the Commission to prevent ticket scalping.

The representative of the National Commission, together with the umpires, official scorers and the club owners of the contesting clubs, will meet at the Victoria Hotel, New York, Friday morning, October 8, at 11 o'clock.

BOWDOIN AFTER HARVARD SCALP

Bowdoin held Harvard to one touchdown a year ago, and will run out on the Stadium field to-morrow morning the hope which every smaller college brings to a game with a big varsity team, the hope of winning. And the smaller teams nowadays have a genuine chance to turn the trick, especially in the early games.

They have less material to try out than the big fellows have, and can get an earlier start on their team games. The ten-point rule handicaps the superior weight and strength which they have to encounter, and the "new football" which may decide the result is very largely luck and nap-hand. Bowdoin men say they want to see one "Farmer" Kern given a chance to back that Harvard line to-morrow. Kern was only one of the scrub when the season began, but he has been rippling up the varsity line in practice in such a manner that it looks as if he should make the first team.

CHAMPION TIGERS QUIT RED SOX AFTER TO-DAY

BOSTON AMERICAN SPORTS

POST-SEASON GAMES ARE BIG MONEY MAKERS

STRAIGHT DOPE
FOR SPORT FANS

HERE'S WHERE I SHRIEK WILDLY for help. I've been dealing you out straight dope for quite a while, and now I want a little big league information myself, so it's up to some of you to help me out. I met a friend yesterday whom I had not seen for several years, and during our conversation he said:

"You know my wife died a little over a year ago."

I didn't know it and was about to sympathize, when he beat me to it by saying:

"But I'm married again and that is my wife sitting in the automobile over there. Come over and meet her."

I started to congratulate him, but backed up right quick. If I said "I'm mighty sorry, old man," he might come back at me with: "What, sorry I'm married," and if I said "Fine business, old scout," he might spring: "What are you talking about, you mutt, fine business that my wife is dead." So I kept my countenance folded up and looked wise.

Now, what was the right thing for me to say under that circumstances. Should I condole with him on his first wife's death, or should I felicitate him on his marriage to his second wife. Don't all answer at once.

JOHNNY MOONEY WAS IN TO SEE me yesterday, and say, you ought to see him. If you haven't, hunt him up and take a look. It's worth while. His classic brow was adorned with a fussy green Kelly like the Willie boys wear, and the rest of the scenery was built to match. Green shirt, green tie, green vest and green socks, together with the Kelly completed a fine ensemble that would make any squab leave her happy home. He's got St. Patrick's Day nacked into a corner and holding onto the ropes, but I'm fearful of what will happen to him if he takes that landscape to South Boston.

FUNNY THING HOW THESE BIG league pennants are won, nowadays. Pittsburg copped the flag the other day by losing a game to New York, and yesterday the Red Sox hammed the tar out of the Tigers, but in spite of that Detroit clinched the pennant while they lost the game. Ever try to figure these things out? Go to it. It's good mental exercise and won't do you any harm.

Haverhill, Mass.

Straight Dope, Boston American:

Will you please put this line in your Straight Dope for me:

I wish to box any boys at 115 pounds. Eddie Curtis of Johnny Conlin of Chicago. Also before any club. Yours truly,

GIL LIMERICK.

Welcome back to our fair city, Al. They tell me you're a good boy and the Armory Club members, I am sure, would be glad to see you mix it with either of the boys you name. Eddie Curtis will be here this week and I'd like to see Billy Pierce put you two on in a send-final.

Straight Dope, Boston American:

Dear Sir—Who won the scrap between Porky Flynn and Kid Williams? Also your opinion of the Dixie Kid. When and at what age.

Also I bet your dope is a corker. There have been many guys trying to give us some dope, but you're the first guy that's going to go straight, without being penalized against anything. Hoping you will not be peeved at my confidence in you and say your dope is off, but then, they don't know what STRAIGHT dope is, and if anybody thinks it's faked let him come out and say so.

Hoping to see a reply and thanking you in advance, I remain your admirer,

STANLEY HOPE.

Revere.

Porky Flynn and Kid Williams were to fight at Manchester, but for some reason the match did not come off. I don't know why. If you send my dope the next two or three days, you know I think Dixie Kid will take a whole lot of middleweights into camp. He was outclassed a mile or two by Langford, that's all. I'm glad you like my dope.

East Boston, Sept. 28.

Straight Dope, Boston American:

Will you kindly print a challenge issued by me? Will Fulton, I will take up my challenge for Kid Mealey of Noddle's Isle. Mealey claims he has defeated Fulton in less than 10 rounds, although he has not met such men as Big Bill Cowan and Young McMahon of Chelmsford.

His present weight is 160 pounds, and he will meet Fulton in one of the ring
Agency at Mr. Pierce will match them for a side bet of $25. Hoping to see this in your column, I am,

ABE GOLDBERG,
Manager of Young Mealey.

P. S.—He is open for any other boy. Young Caruso preferred. A. G.

What a change anyone would have against a combination of Mlusky and Goldberg. Glick to you, Abe.

Straight Dope, Boston American:

Please settle a dispute whether Langford or Gardner is the heaviest ever Dixie Kid and if so, has Johnson the same decision over Burns and Ahlgren. Yours truly,

J. CARROLL.

Dorchester street, South Boston.

Langford gets credit with a knockout. Burns was also knocked out.

Straight Dope, Boston American:

I noticed in your column that the Harlow A. A. football team of Dorchester, Mass., claims the championship of New England on the grounds that they won seventeen out of eighteen games played.

In the first place, it seems improbable that any team could play eighteen games in one season. Second, they do not mention the names of any of the various teams which they defeated, but where is this competence. So much for the 1908 champs. This is the season of 1909, and the South Boston A. A. will be pleased to test the ability of these self-styled champs at 135 pounds.

J. J. BARDON,
Manager South Boston A. A.
117 Mercer street, South Boston, Mass. Tel. 270-4 South Boston.

Straight Dope, Boston American:

Dear Sir—I wish to insert a few lines in your column in behalf of Kid Lee, 105-pound champion of Chelsea. His challenge is open to any 105-pounder in the State. Address

JOSEPH J. LUPO, Manager,
135½ Chelsea street, Charlestown, Mass.

There's a youngster named Frank Mahoney, who is looking for a match with a boy just like Kid Lee, and I think the boxing clubs at Salem or Manchester would stage the bout.

POST SEASON GAMES HAVE GROWN IN $ $

Over 100,000 people will probably pay from 50 cents to $2 each to see the series of games between the American and National League champions this Fall. Less than 5,000 people paid from 25 to 50 cents each to see the first series of games for the world's series in 1881, when the Providence team of the National League and the old Mets of the American Association played for the world's flag.

Including the 1884 and the 1908 series there have been fifteen battles for the world's championship, not counting the struggle between Cleveland and Boston in 1892 for the double season championship or the three series for the Temple cup—in 1894, '95, and '96—between the first and second teams in the National League.

Nationals Won 54; Lost 32.

In the fifteen series the National League has won four and lost thirty-two games. Three of the games ended in ties, one in 1885, one in 1890, and one in 1907. This makes a total of eighty-nine games.

The National League lost but one world's series to the old American Association. Two ended in ties. Here are the figures:

NATIONAL LEAGUE.		AMERICAN ASSOC'N.
	W.		W.
1884—Provid'ce,	3	Metropolitans	0
1885—Chicago,	3	1 St. Louis,	3
1886—Chicago,	4	2 St. Louis,	3
1887—Detroit,	10	4 St. Louis,	4
1888—N. York,	10	4 Brooklyn,	6
1889—N. York,	6	3 Brooklyn,	3
1890—Louisville,	3	3 Brooklyn,	3
Totals,	37	21 Totals,	21

The double season championship was held in 1892. Boston and Cleveland each winning one of the halves. The first game in the playoff ended in a tie, but Boston won the next four games without a slip. The players got all the receipts above the expenses, but the total sum was very small.

Orioles Win It Back.

Then came the Temple cup series, beginning in 1894. New York beat Baltimore in the first series in four straight games.

The next year Cleveland won four out of five games from Baltimore. In 1896 the Orioles won the cup back in four straight games. The players' share of the money amounted to about $250 per man each year.

The Temple cup was withdrawn in 1897, and there were no more games for the world's series until 1903, when the Boston Americans and the Pittsburg Pirates met. Since then there have been games every year, except in 1904, when McGraw refused to play the Boston Americans. The results are:

NATIONAL LEAGUE.	W.	L.	T.	AMERICAN LEAGUE.	W.	L.	T.
1903—Pittsburg,	3	5	0	Boston,	5	3	0
1905—N. York,	4	1	0	Athletics,	1	4	0
1906—Chicago,	4	2	0	Chicago,	2	4	0
1907—Chicago,	4	0	1	Detroit,	0	4	1
1908—Chicago,	4	1	0	Detroit,	1	4	0
Totals,	17	11	1	Totals,	11	17	1

The series between the Chicago and St. Louis teams in 1885 ended in a tie. Each player got $41.70. The financial results in 1886-87 were about the same, and in 1888 the ten games between the New York and St. Louis clubs brought in $24,302, or about $2,430 a game.

The nine games between New York and Brooklyn in 1889 brought $16,632.10 into the box office. The Brooklyn-Louisville games of 1890 attracted scarcely any attention or patronage, as the Brotherhood was in the spotlight then.

What Boston Players Got.

There was no supervision by the national commission over the Boston-Pittsburg series in 1903, but the Boston players received the winner's share, $1,182 each. The Pirates took down $1,316 per man. President Dreyfuss gave the Pittsburg club's share to the players' portion.

The receipts of the five games between the Athletics and Giants in 1905 were $68,538.51. Each New York player got $1,142 and each Athletic player $382.

The Sox and Cubs drew 99,845 people and $106,550 in money at their six games in 1906. The share of each Cub player was $439.50, and of each White Sox player—after Comiskey had added $15,000 to their receipts—$1,847.63.

In 1907 each Tiger player got $1,048.85, each Cub player $2,200. The total receipts for the five games were $101,728.50.

Last year the receipts for the five games between the Cubs and Tigers amounted to $94,975. The Chicago players divided $27,-068.95, giving each of the 21 players $1,317.58. The share of each of the 21 Tigers amounted to $870.

Nearly everybody in Boston reads the AMERICAN.

TENNIS STARS FOR AUSTRALIA

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 1.—Maurice McLoughlin and Melville Long have returned to this city after a successful season on the tennis courts in the East. They will be here about two weeks before leaving for Australia, where they are to represent America in the world's championship tennis matches with the Australian players late in November.

Both Long and McLoughlin spoke in the highest terms of the players in the East and the treatment they received while on the trip.

The local players will leave for Australia October 8, and will go by way of Vancouver. They will arrive in Australia about the 1st of November, and the matches will be played some time after the 15th of November. The matches this year will be played at Sydney, instead of at Melbourne, where they have been played in past years. This change has been made owing to the heat of Melbourne.

HARVARD CREW OUT MONDAY

The Harvard varsity crew will be called out next Monday afternoon for regular Fall practice, which will last until Nov. 12. The dormitory crews will be called out Oct. 11. The point which will be strongly emphasized in the coaching will be the finish of the stroke.

The veterans who will return to college are Captain E. Ward Lothrop, Wilhington, E. C. Bacon and Roger Cutler. Paul Withington, who is back at college, will finish his course at mid-years and will not be eligible for the crew. From the four-oar crew Foster, Whitney and Sargent will again be eligible.

The varsity squad, which will report at the Newell boat house next Monday at 4 o'clock, will be composed of the following men: Anderson, Bacon, Balch, Bearse, Cutler, Eaton, Forster, Higginson, Hoar, Howell, Hooper, Jowett, Kempton, Kent, F. Leslie, Loring, Meleod, Newton, Sargent, Shiffito, Strong, Trumbull, Wald, Waite, L. Withington, Whitney, Youtils.

ARBITERS FOR SCHOOL SPORTS

A new executive committee to decide on knotty points concerning athletics in the Boston High School League has been announced. Principals John F. Casey of English High and Charles J. Lincoln of Dorchester High, who have served on the committee acceptably since the formation of the league, have resigned. Principals Frank V. Thompson of the High School of Commerce and John F. Elliot of East Boston High, with George Mann of West Roxbury High, will replace the new committee.

The revised rules for the Boston High School League contain a few important changes. The three months' rule, which last Fall caused considerable wrangle over a certain player, was changed. In any case a scholar entering a Boston school from an outside institution and wishing to engage in athletics will be ineligible for his first three months.

In the matter of admission fees to athletic events, it has also been ruled that a uniform fee must be charged.

ENDURANCE RUN IS SHORTLY TO BE ANNOUNCED

BY J. C. KERRISON.

The touring committee of the Bay State Automobile Association will shortly announce the date of a prospective endurance run for the Fall season. At present its representatives are endeavoring to iron out what will appeal mostly to the trade in general, both as to distance and location. Some of the dealers there are who believe that such a run as the twenty-four hour contest of last year would prove most attractive, while others figure that nothing short of a 1,000-mile non-engine stop would fill the bill.

The season is getting pretty late and the days rather short for such a long distance run as the latter, but there is no reason why a run of even two hundred miles could not be held in one day.

The idea of a run from Boston to Providence, then to Worcester, Fitchburg and Lowell, as suggested in the AMERICAN some few weeks ago, seems to meet with considerable approval, the only criticism offered against the same being that the roads selected are by no means difficult enough for the cars of to-day.

Then if a cardreaking proposition is desired, send the cars through the White Mountains, not over the oft-as-travelled roads to Bretton Woods, but over other roads that are not so good in character, and along which rough and difficult hills are to be encountered.

There are several such roads to be found, such for instance as Chocorua and Savage Mountains, and, if need be, John Anderson's Pass between Woodstock and Hart Midgett of the Intervale can give a little information on the location of roads, hills and grades that will cause no end of difficulty for all cars now competing in an endurance contest.

The Board of Directors of the Boston Motor Club is to hold a meeting on Monday evening next and decide definitely just what shall be done, as regards the future of the organization. Although this club has remained quiet all season long, there is a disposition on the part of its officers and members to do something and doing.

Road racing records were lowered all along the line in the Hudson Derby contest, Chevrolet with the Buick repeating his consistent work of this season by capturing one of the events in phenomenal time, averaging slightly over seventy miles an hour, an average only once surpassed, and that by the Fiorito cup race. Equally as meritorious as this was the performance of the 4-cyl. Maxwell that was at Lowell. See sent the car around the circuit and won his class at an average of forty-four miles an hour, which is certainly going some when one stops to consider the bare and stake of the four cylinders on the little Maxwell.

LYNCH GETS DECISION.

LOWELL, Oct. 1.—The bout between Eddie Carr of South Boston and Johnny Lynch of Cambridge, scheduled for twelve rounds, was stopped in the seventh round because the Cambridge man had all the better of the going. Carr was pulled through the latter part of the bout and his efforts were so poor that the referee sent the men to their corners and declared Lynch the winner. In the early rounds the fighting was fast.

Ten Reasons Why Women Should Vote

By MRS. FLORENCE KELLEY

A Former Factory Inspector and Now Vice-President of the National Suffrage Association and Secretary of the Consumers' League.

1—It is just. This underlies all the other reasons. It is always expedient to deal justly.

2—It is nonsense that the women of this nation should be classed with idiots and criminals.

3—It is wrong to train for children to be taught that their mothers and teachers are as inferior part of the community. The unreason of this teaching is all the more glaring in a nation in which the work of teaching is so largely entrusted to women as in the United States. A profession, the majority of whose members are disfranchised, cannot, and does not, command that respect which should, in the interest of the rising generation, attach to teaching. The same argument applies to the home. So long as the homemakers remain disfranchised, the home as an institution cannot and does not command due respect.

4—It is further in the interest of the home. From the immediate practical point of view, that mothers should have a voice as to food adulteration, meat and inspection, garbage collection, street sprinkling, fire protection, building laws and ordinances, playgrounds, recreation centers, and in general all those civic activities which affect the profession of homemaker.

5—In the interest of the schools mothers and teachers should have a voice as to the qualification, character and compensation of teachers, the curriculum (for instance, domestic science and moral instruction, two subjects now persistently omitted), the length of the school year, compulsory attendance, the choice of school books and all those matters which are at present decided so largely from political considerations and so little with reference to the teachers and the children.

6—In the interest of society itself, women should serve as judges and juries in cases involving offences against women and children. Without this there can be neither full justice nor the fullest attainable wisdom. But women will never be judges or juries without the ballot. The backwardness, cruelty and injustice of our present penal system are due in large part to the exclusion of women from the performance of these duties.

7—In an industrially developing nation every class of workers are at a disadvantage who, being disfranchised, have nothing to say about the laws under which they work, and the officials who enforce or fail to enforce, those laws. With the rapid increase of women in industry this argument comes more urgently to the fore.

8—A conspicuous weakness in our civic life is the well-nigh universal failure to enforce protective legislation. This is directly due to the fact that judges, magistrates, truant officers, factory, dairy, food and milk inspectors and executive officers general owe no responsibility to the women in their employ.

9—Women themselves need the education involved in voting citizenship. Much latent ability is now wasted, undeveloped, while women play golf and bridge, gossip, do fancy work and carry on remedial charitable work instead of applying their active intelligence to the noble task of self-government of all the people.

10—Wherever women do vote experience shows no disadvantages and many substantial advantages from their so doing. Abstract considerations of justice and concrete teaching of experience agree in behalf of votes for women.

BOSTON AMERICAN FREE BEAUTY COUPON.

Good Tomorrow for This World's Most Famous Beauty Specialist.

An opportunity is now offered every reader of this paper to consult the most famous beauty specialist in the world, Mlle. Meta, of Paris, London and Boston, absolutely free.

Little wonder tears ago there was nothing known which, in our judgment, would actually remove wrinkles, at all that the first Mlle. Meta's discovery which has since made her famous throughout the Continent.

She demonstrated the great power of her new process by taking her own wrinkles out with it. Three nights after face massage, masks, steams, packs, etc., had all failed, and today Mlle. Meta's face is still free from wrinkles, her cheeks full and plump and her skin and complexion is a delight to behold. In fact, by many she is considered the most beautiful woman in all Paris.

Her remarkable discovery was brought before the judges of the Paris International Exposition and the Rome International Exposition for their investigation and in both instances they quickly awarded her Gold Medals for merit. The French Government also honored her with a patent on her new process, and patents are now pending before the U. S. Government at Washington.

London Journals sent their Beauty Editresses to investigate her methods, and their high endorsements of her discoveries made her fashionable almost overnight, so that she was eagerly sought after by French Countesses and English Ladies of high title and rank. The Beauty Editress of the London Onlooker wrote, "An interview with Mlle. Meta left me persuaded that here at last might be found the secret to restore youth and beauty."

Many of those who have used her process report most astonishing results. Mrs. Mary J. Davis, of Rose St., Lowell, Mass., says: "My wrinkles were very deep and of long standing, so you can imagine my surprise when, after only two applications, they entirely disappeared." Mrs. L. E. Haskell, of 1502 Clay St., San Francisco, writes: "I am fifty years old. Consequently my wrinkles were of long standing and I had not thought it possible to erase them, but now when I view my changed reflection in the mirror I can scarcely realize the transformation that has been wrought." Mrs. M. A. Edwards, of Raleigh, N. C., says: "Since using the Treatment I look younger than I did twenty-five years ago." Mrs. M. L. Lee, 110 S. 4th St., Richmond, Ind., writes: "I used the treatment one night and it succeeded in entirely removing my wrinkles, leaving my face as soft and free from lines as a child's."

Since Mlle. Meta owns her remarkable discovery imitators have naturally sprung up all over the country. Some of them have copied Mlle. Meta's advertisements and literature to such an extent that the public is often at a loss to distinguish the imitation from the real. We are therefore authorized to announce the following remarkable offer, which cannot fail to convince you as to who is who.

Mlle. Meta will forfeit $1,000.00 in Gold if she fails to prove that she holds nine Gold Medals and three Grand Prix on her discovery from International Expositions. She will forfeit $1,000.00 in Gold if any one can prove that she did not take out her own wrinkles and that in those nights exactly as she claims. She will forfeit $1,000.00 in Gold if every testimonial and sworn statement which she publishes is not absolutely genuine. She will forfeit $1,000.00 in Gold if any one can show advertisements similar to hers published in any Newspaper or Magazine in the United States or Europe prior to the publication of her advertisements.

Arrangements have been made with Mlle. Meta to furnish free information in regard to her marvelous process for removing wrinkles to all Boston American readers. Merely cut out and send her the Coupon below and you will receive free particulars by return mail in a plain sealed envelope. You can use this remarkable process in the privacy of your own home without the knowledge of even your most intimate friends. It often works astonishing wonders in a single treatment over night.

Does Marriage Make or Mar a Man? By Dorothy Dix

THE English papers have revived the perennial discussion of whether matrimony is a help or a hindrance to a man. Some of the disputants hold that a man is like a kite, and flies highest when he is balanced by a good strong tail, while others quote Kipling's famous dictum, "Down to Gehenna, or up to throne, He travels fastest who travels alone."

As a matter of fact, the solution of the problem lies in the time of life at which a man marries and the kind of a woman that he picks out for a wife.

As a general thing, the man who marries young, unless he marries some woman who, either by reason of her money or social position, can advance his interest, effectually handicaps himself to the race of life by marrying. He may win out, but the chances are against him, for he is carrying a weight.

No matter how devoted and thrifty a woman may be, or how anxious she is to help her husband succeed, the bare truth remains that if she is married to a poor man who is anxious to get on in the world she is a burden upon him.

It takes money to support a family, and it is almost impossible for any man who is just beginning in business or to practice a profession to make more than a mere living if he has a wife and children to care for. He cannot save up the little nest egg that will enable him to buy an interest in the business, or to give himself the year or two of extra study that would be the stepping stone to higher things.

Barred from Society.

Neither can he afford to go into the society where his interests would best be pushed. Alone he might go, for the wardrobe that would enable him to make a decent appearance in society in a simple thing, but a woman's clothes are a different matter. They are bottomless pits, and yet no woman may show herself in even semi-fashionable society without the proper furbelows.

Also a bachelor may live where he pleases, but a married man must live in a certain style. Nor need a bachelor entertain, whereas a married man must make an adequate return for the hospitality received.

Therefore, until a man has gotten the skin of the wolf for a door mat, he certainly mars his chances of success by marrying, no matter what sort of an angel his wife is.

If, however, a man is able to support a family, whether he is made or marred by matrimony depends altogether on the kind of a wife he gets. If he marries an extravagant woman she will keep him poor all the days of his life, for he can never make money as fast as she can spend it.

If he marries one of the helpless, doll baby sort of women, one of the women who are just born burdens that their husbands have to carry, he will never capture the prize that he entered for, because no living man can win out when staggering along under such a load.

The Selfish Woman

If he marries a selfish woman who puts her own pleasures and feelings before his advancement, and who prevents him from taking advantage of opportunities offered him because of her prejudices—who won't let him come to Boston, for instance, because she doesn't want to leave the Sewing Circle in Podunk—he must sacrifice success to matrimonial peace.

If he marries a high-tempered woman, or one who is adept in the gentle art of making enemies, matrimony spells failure for him.

These men are marred by marriage, but there are just as many other men who are made by it.

History is full of notable examples of men whose wives have been their inspiration, and in every-day life are continually catch glimpses of women who are behind the doors of the successes of the men we know.

There are unambitious men who would be perfectly satisfied to jog along through life were it not that their wives are a continual spur to their sides. Many a man gets up and hustles simply and solely because his wife makes him ashamed not to.

There are extravagant, thriftless men whose wives do all of the saving, and instill into them the economy that eventually leads on to fortune.

There are weak, wishy-washy men whose wives furnish the backbone for the family and who become leading men in the community simply because they are kept bonazed up by the indomitable courage and purpose of the women to whom they are married.

It Depends on the Wife

There are business men in plenty whose wives are the real financial geniuses behind the throne. There are doctors who owe their practices to their wives' discreet press agency, and lawyers who depend on the intuition of their wives for their most valuable points in trying a case.

And there are tens of thousands of other men who would be idlers, loafers and drunkards except for the women they married, the women who are dependent upon them, who believe in them, who love them. Many a man, trying to do the right thing, squares his shoulders and does the right thing because he wouldn't dare to look into his wife's eyes if he didn't.

So, at last, the question of whether man is made or marred by marriage comes back to the starting point—it all depends on the woman he marries.

HOW TO REDUCE WEIGHT—Men and women who are too fleshy should not fail to read Mme. Cavalieri's recipe for reducing weight 30 pounds. It will be in the SUNDAY AMERICAN.

If he marries one of the helpless women, he will never capture the prize.

If he marries a nagging woman she will break his spirit in time, and his dreams and aspirations will fade away from him, or he will turn his Pegasus into a plough horse.

If he marries one of the helpless, doll

The Perfume of the Lady in Black

A Thrilling, Absorbing Story by the Author of "The Mystery of the Yellow Room"

By GASTON LEROUX

(Copyright, 1908, by Bustano'e)

CHAPTER XX.—(Continued)

IT was an indescribable scene—a moment never to be forgotten. At the gesture of Rouletabille, the door of the panel swung open, pushed by an invisible hand, just as it had been on that terrible night which had witnessed the mystery of "the body too many."

And the form of a man appeared. Clamors of surprise, of joy and of fear filled the Square Tower. The Lady in Black uttered a heart rending cry: "Robert! Robert! Robert!"

And it was a cry of joy! Two Darzacs before us—exactly similar! That every one of us saw the Lady in Black might have been deceived. But she herself told her the truth, even admitting that her delirium notwithstanding, the unimpeachable conclusion of Rouletabille, might have hesitated. Her arms outstretched, her face straight with love and joy, she rushed toward the second manifestation of Darzac, the one which had come out from the panel. Matilde's face was radiant with a new life; her sorrowful eyes which had so often beheld fixed with soubtre gloom upon that other, were simply aflame with love with a joy as glorious as it was tranquil and assured. It was just! It was she whom she had believed lost—whom she had sought in vain in the visage of the other and had not found there and, therefore, had accused herself, during the weary hours of day and night, of folly which was akin to madness.

As for the man who, up to the last moment I had not believed to be guilty—as to that wretch who, unveiled and tracked to earth, found himself suddenly face to face with the living proof of his crimes, he anticipated yet again one of the daring coups which had so often saved him.

Between us on every side, he yet endeavored to flee. Then we understood the audacious drama which in the last few moments he had played for our benefit.

When he could no longer have any doubt as to the issue of the discussion which he was holding with Rouletabille, he had had the incredible self-control to permit nothing of his emotions to appear, and had even been able to prolong the situation, permitting Rouletabille to persuade us believe the friend of the argument, at the end of which he knew that he would find his doom, but during the progress of which he might have an opportune sense morsels of revenge. And he had effected his manoeuvres so well that at the moment when we seized the other Darzac advancing toward us, we could not hinder the impostor from disappearing into one found within the room which had served as the confessional of Mme. Darzac, enclosing the door violently behind him with a rapidity which was only equaled by his dexterity. We only knew that he had vanished when it was too late to stop his flight.

Rouletabille dashed into the secret which had passed had thought only of guarding the door of the room by which we had not noticed that every movement of the fugitive. Since he had not come out, he was being convicted of his imposture, he could only be within the confessional room. The reporter had attached to an enormous key which opened the door, and he did that this room did not offer any way by which Larsan might escape. But, however, when the scoundrel was behind the door which afforded his last refuge, his self confusion increased beyond all proportions. One might have thought that he had become suddenly bereft of our senses. We knocked on the door. We cried out. We thought of all his strokes of genius—of his marvellous escapes in the past!

"He will escape us! He will get away from us again!"

Arthur Rance was the most enraged of us all. Mme. Edith, who was clinging to my arm, drove her finger nails into my hand in a paroxysm of nervous fear. Nobody paid any heed to the Lady in Black who and Robert Darzac who, in the midst of this tempest, seemed to have forgotten everything, even the chance of confusion around them. Neither one had spoken a word, but they were looking into each other's eyes as though they had discovered another world—the world which is love. But they had not discovered it; they had merely found it again, thanks to Rouletabille.

The latter had opened the door of the corridor and summoned the three domestics to our assistance. They entered with their rifles. But it was axes that were needed. The door was solid and hurriedly made with heavy bolts. Pere Jacques went out and fetched a beam which served us as a battering ram. Each of us exerted all his strength and, finally, we saw the door beginning to give way. Our anxiety was at its height. In vain, we told ourselves that we were about to enter a room in which there were only walls and barred windows.

When the door had commenced to yield, Rouletabille directed the servants to fall on their guns, with the order, however, that the weapons were to be used only in case it should be impossible to capture Larsan alive. Then the young reporter set his shoulder to the door with one last powerful effort and as the boards, wrenched from their hinges, fell to the ground, he was the first to enter the room.

We followed him. And behind him, upon the threshold, we all halted, stupified by the sight which met our eyes. Larsan was there—plainly to be seen by every one. And this time there was no difficulty in recognizing him. He had removed his false beard; he had put aside his "Darzac mask;" he had resumed once more the pale, clean-shaven face of that Frederic Larsan whom he had known at the chateau of Glandier. And his presence seemed to fill the entire room. He was lying back comfortably in an easy chair in the centre of the room and was looking at us with his great, calm eyes. His arm was stretched along the arm of the chair. His head was resting on the cushion at the back. One would have said that he was giving us an audience and was waiting for us to make known our business. It seemed to me that I could even discern an ironical smile on his lips.

Rouletabille advanced toward him.

"Larsan," he said in a voice which was not quite steady, "Larsan, do you give yourself up?"

But Larsan did not reply.

Then Rouletabille touched the man's face and realized that he saw that Larsan was dead.

Rouletabille pointed to a ring on the middle finger. The collet was open and under a bezel cup which was empty it must have contained a deadly poison.

Arthur Rance put his head against the man's chest and assured us that all was over. And Rouletabille entreated us to leave him alone in the Square Tower and to try and forget the terrible drama which had joined there.

"I will charge myself with everything."

False Pride and Petty Quarrels

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

HALF the quarrels in the world are due to a mistaken idea of pride, when the quarrel is between sweethearts, because neither will be the first to say I'm sorry.

The girl is always sorry, but her pride tells her that the man should be the first to apologize.

The man thinks it beneath his manly dignity to do so, and the result is as fine a quarrel as you would wish to see.

As a rule, sweethearts quarrel chiefly for the sake of making up again. The girl finds it exciting to arouse the man's jealousy. Half the time there is not the ghost of a reason for the jealousy, and many a man has quite unconsciously posed as a rival, but the victim does not see through his lady's cunning wiles, and it is miserable as she means him to be.

The foolish young people can build a large and thriving quarrel out of an incredibly small amount of material. But as time goes on the quarrels grow less romantic, they are not made up quite so easily, and though the wounds heal an ugly scar remains.

False Pride

The pride which prevents two persons who love each other from frankly acknowledging themselves to be in the wrong is a false and mistaken pride.

Proper pride is dignified and righteous. If you have good cause to take offence, do so, but don't spoil your life's happiness by your inability to distinguish between proper pride and false.

Don't you sometimes quarrel without taking the time and trouble to sift the matter and find out the real cause? Girls write to me and say: "I quarrelled with the man I love because I heard that he said so and so about me," and then it turns out that they have not even given the man a chance to defend himself; they have rushed into a quarrel on the strength of what some third party has told them.

Always give the person you love the benefit of the doubt. Don't believe anything against him until you have actual proof of it.

It is so very, very easy to lose your temper and say things for which you are desperately sorry when it is too late.

I know how it is; those little venomous speeches pop out before you have time to control them. Remember that "many a true word is spoken in anger who never come back at night" and never let your loved ones go away unforgiven.

Don't Arouse Jealousy

And you, little girl, don't try to arouse the jealousy of the man who loves you.

Don't quarrel; life is too short to waste any of its precious moments in bitterness and unkindness.

Don't wait for the other person to say, "I am sorry," be a man or a woman, as the case may be, and acknowledge yourself to be in the wrong.

What is a little "humble pie," as balanced against your life's happiness?

I have known members of a family who have not spoken for years, simply because neither could bring himself to apologize. It is such a miserable, puny sort of pride that holds itself as an unbreakable fetter and obstinacy might fitly describe it.

Never sleep on a quarrel, for quarrels grow monstrous in the nighttime.

If the person to whom you apologize does not receive your apology graciously, don't let that affect you. Do your part, your part and that is all for which you are responsible.

Remember that it takes two to make a quarrel and if you refuse to be one of the two you can control the situation. Also remember that if you quarrel even a little bit before marriage, you will much more often after, and that will mean death to a happy married life.

THE LATEST STYLES IN KNITTING AND CROCHETING

A New and Striking Crocheted Coat

Here is something really new in coat sweaters—a striped pattern. Broad stripes of a beautiful compact knot stitch are separated by a smaller stripe of a contrasting color—gray with white; white with black, red or navy; tan with brown or olive, are some of the popular combinations. This is an extremely useful coat—warm, light, comfortable, and is particularly charming for the high school girl. Nine banks of Fleisher's Knitting Worsted are required. This is the strongest yarn made. A trifle wiry in nature, it works up into a close texture, while giving full value to every stitch.

Full directions for making this and many other new and staple articles may be found in Fleisher's Knitting and Crocheting Manual, an invaluable handbook for beginner and expert. Contains a complete course of instruction in the various stitches and is the only authoritative guide to fashion in articles made of yarn.

SOCIETY IN FLUTTER OVER INVITATION LIST TO THE ASSEMBLIES

By ELIZABETH ELLIOTT.

Earlier than ever the dates for two assemblies, the most fashionable and exclusive of all society events in Boston, have been announced, and all the members of the younger set are in a flutter of expectancy over the list of invitations. The dates have been announced for Friday nights, January 5 and February 2, and they will be held at the Somerset as usual. To be invited to the assemblies is the one burning ambition of every society girl from her earliest days, but not until the "year of her debut is the fateful question settled; and she either triumphantly dons her handsomest gown for the great, real "grown-up" ball, or, in case she is not numbered among the fortunate ones, she hurries off to Europe or to the South, to forget her disappointment.

The assemblies always stand for the high-water mark of the season's gayeties, and to be on the subscription list and be a member of the ultra-fashionable coterie elegant. So, not until the invitations list be out do the aspirants know their fate. It's the supreme society election as far as the society girl is concerned.

Miss Julia Coolidge is having the hobby of times with the flowers and delicate tattoos which have been showered upon her since the announcement to-day of her engagement to Henry H. Richards.

One of the most interesting weddings of the week was that of Miss Marion Witherton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Augustus Witherton of Rutland square, and Edward Holwood Hull, son of Mr. and Mrs. James W. Hull of Pittsfield. The marriage took place at the home of the bride's parents and the ceremony was performed by the Rev. Charles P. Toole of Jamaica Plain who was assisted by Dr. W. G. Davis of Pittsfield. The maid of honor was Miss Elizabeth B. Ballard and the bridesmaids were the Misses Lucy Haldane Josephine Lee and Miss Carolyn Hull. Thomas P. Hull of Pittsfield was the best man and the ushers were Norman C. Hull, Robert P. Washington and Ogden Lampson. The ceremony was followed by a reception at the home of the bride's parents. Mr. and Mrs. Hull are to live in Pittsfield.

Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Bowditch Potter (May Sargent) have named their baby daughter Natalie. They have been joined at their New York home by Robeson Sargent, brother of Mrs. Potter, who is to wed Miss Edith Wharton of New York, November 6. The parents of Mrs. Potter, Professor and Mrs. Charles Sprague Sargent, are still at Marblehead Neck, where Mr. Sargent's health has greatly improved.

E. Aubrey Hunt, the artist, who was here during the illness and death of his father, Edmund S. Hunt, is Weymouth, and Wednesday for his home in King Hill.

A CHICKEN YARN

A SIMPLE-minded man in a big manufacturing town decided to keep fowls, so he bought a hen and ten chickens. He wrote to his brother to come and see them.

In a week's time the brother came and saw the hen with two sickly-looking little chicks behind her. The rest were dead.

"Where's the rest me lad and ten chickens?"

"Why I had," replied the simple one, "but the others are dead."

"What's the matter with 'em, eh?" said the brother.

You see the AMERICAN everywhere—in the homes, clubs, restaurants, hotels, cars and boats.

See the Sharps Figure Age of Johnny Jones

Oh, watch the mathematical sharps at work on that Johnny Jones problem! What are they trying to do? Find out Johnny Jones' age. Sounds simple, doesn't it? But it isn't. The answers are pouring into the BOSTON AMERICAN office, and there are as many different answers as there are claimants to the North Pole, any then a great many more.

Now, as Sherlock Holmes would say in trying to solve a mystery, "Dr. Watson, tell me the facts." Well, this is the problem:

When teacher asked little Johnny Jones his age, he replied:

"When I was born my sister was one-quarter the age of my mother. Sister is now one-third as old as father and I am one-quarter of mother's age. In four years I shall be one-quarter as old as father."

The BOSTON AMERICAN wants you to help it by solving the problem and sending your name and answer to Johnny Jones Contest, AMERICAN, Boston, Mass.

Here are some of the answers:

TWO AGES FOR JOHNNY.

Editor Johnny Jones Contest:

I believe Johnny's age to be 9 3-5 years. Giving 30 days to the month he would be 9 years 7 months 18 days.

HARRY A. LAWRANCE.

Somerville.

WHAT A YOUNG MOTHER.

Editor Johnny Jones Contest:

Boy is 3-5-9 years old, sister is 6 2-9, mother 14 2-9, father 18 6-9.

EUGENE LOUISE MINKINS.

Pawtucket.

STICKS TO 9 3-5 YEARS.

Editor Johnny Jones Contest:

I think that Johnny Jones is nine and three-fifths years of age.

JAMES BURNS,

Pawtucket.

QUITE YOUNG FOR JOHNNY.

Editor Johnny Jones Contest:

Little Johnny is 6⅔ years old.

MARTIN BOCKELMAN.

Neponset.

THIS BOY KNOWS HE'S RIGHT.

Editor Johnny Jones Contest:

I do not think I am right. I know I am right.

Johnny Jones's age is 9 3-5 years; sister's age is 16 4-5 years; mother's age is 38 2-5 years; father's age is 50 2-5 years.

ALFRED SWEET.

Worcester.

A BLACKSMITH TRIES IT.

Editor Johnny Jones Contest:

In answer to Jones problem Johnny is nine years and nine months old.

JESSE A. BLACKSMITH.

Cambridge.

IN THE KINDERGARTEN.

Editor Johnny Jones Contest:

Johnny Jones is four years three months old.

JACK U. VIRTUE.

New Bedford.

ANOTHER WITH MAJORITY.

Editor Johnny Jones Contest:

I make Johnny's age to be 9 years 7 months and 6 days. His mother's age is 28 years 4 months and 24 days. His sister's age, 16 years 9 months and 18 days.

A. G. STORY.

Worcester.

NEWS FROM THE SHIPTOWN.

Editor Johnny Jones Contest:

Dear Sir: Johnny Jones is 9 3-5 years old; his sister is 16 4-5 years old; his mother is 38 2-5 years old and his father is 50 2-5 years old.

LAWRENCE K. SUMMER.

Bath, Me.

DOWN TO FRACTIONS.

Editor Johnny Jones Contest:

In regard to your Johnny Jones contest I would say the correct solution of problem is that Johnny is 9 years, 7 months, 6 days old (9⅔ yrs.).

A READER.

A CANADIAN KID'S VIEW.

Editor Johnny Jones Contest:

Say, will you believe a Canadian kid who says Johnny is twelve and four-fifths years old?

C. B. W.

East Boston.

THIS RABBIT MULTIPLIES BADLY.

Editor Johnny Jones Contest:

Johnny Jones is exactly 12 8-10 years old.

"JACK RABBIT."

Boston.

NINE, SEVEN, SIX HOLDS.

Editor Johnny Jones Contest:

I make that Johnny Jones is just 9 years 7 months and 15 old.

O'REILLY IS LOOKING 'EM OVER; PICKS REAL IRISH STEW SUNDAY

Lawrence O'Reilly is hard at work trying to find out who wins those two Scrooges for the best recipe for Irish stew, that given by himself or the other by the BOSTON AMERICAN. Thousands of letters have been received from all parts of New England containing choice recipes from many households. Some of these have been printed in the AMERICAN and the final letters will be printed to-day. The AMERICAN, one of the winners in the Irish stew contest will be printed in Sunday's BOSTON AMERICAN. Send in your recipes NOW. Last call.

NOISE LIKE A STEW.

Editor AMERICAN:

The latest a sound like O'Reilly's stew.

Two mutton, skim close.
Two pounds at the most.
Two onions, eight litres in a parsnip.
Salt and pepper to taste.
Two hours boil at the most.
With five dumplings you'll sure call
For a Harmer High Ball.

"OLD LEATHER BREECHES."

Editor AMERICAN:

There is record of an Irish stew made from a pipe and well seasoned pair of "old Leather Breeches," satisfaction guaranteed.

"Mick O'Keefe said I thought it was Barney, I thought it was Mick O'Keefe said I thought it was Barney."

When Bryan McGurk on the pint of his body,
Held up a big ivory button."

"WHY DO THINK OF IT HIGHLY?"

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

One and one-quarter pounds lean cut in cubes, one and one-quarter pounds beef cut in pieces. Wash, place in kettle, cover with cold water and simmer gently until nearly boiling point (about two and one half hours), adding just water enough to keep it from burning. Cook and add six medium sized potatoes cut in quarters, six onions halved and four carrots cut in two-inch pieces. Just before the vegetables are done drop dumplings on top of stew, cook twelve minutes, remove from to a warm dish which is not thickened for the broth, then return to stew. There should be just enough for gravy, which should be rich in flavor and rather thick; it cooked by these directions it will be. Dumplings—one egg, beaten; egg be added to the milk before mixing. Those who like always find gravy, buttered tible one will be pleased with the result.

Ay I back to O'Reilly's
Ay nah he hasn't of this shyly,
he think of it highly
Well like the quite!

IRISH GIRL FOR IRISH STEW.

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

I take O'Reilly to be Irish,
And I am Irish, too;
Therefore, I takes an Irish girl
To make an Irish stew.

Directions—Three pounds of the round of beef. Two onions cut up fine, large tea spoon of salt, a pinch of pepper, six nice sized potatoes, sliced up small (the more pieces and cook two hours, add potatoes and onions and cook three-quarters of an hour. To chicken add one tablespoon of flour, braised in a little cold water; let boil ten minutes; take off and let stand fifteen minutes before using.

MISS MARGARET COOK.

Box 615, Sanford, Maine.

A WORLD SUIT ANY MAN.

Now, Mr. O'Reilly, if you like Irish stew, Here is a recipe that I'm sure will suit you. Get two pounds of mutton, some fat and some lean.

Put him up just that you know is quite clean. After that, a handful or three you'll mix, Then take the onions, six sliced up nix.

Twelve good-sized potatoes to this you will add,

Salt and pepper (too much would be bad);

A quart of cold water he sure to put in,

So it may cover all that will be lain.

Let it cook for three hours as slow as you can

And this Irish stew ought to suit any man

MRS. MARY COLLINS.

28 Springfield street, South Lawrence.

LAWS IN DUBLIN STEW.

Editor AMERICAN:

Irish stew is made in Dublin: Cut about two pounds of lamb from the neck and a few onions into small pieces, stir brown together. Cut and add three or four young carrots, two white turnips, and about a quart of potatoes. Cover the whole with water, season to taste and let it simmer for two hours.

MRS. I. ADAM.

No. 6 Pritchard avenue, Somerville.

ME A REAL HARNEY STEW.

Editor AMERICAN:

O'Reilly, I don't know what you got in Donegal, but this is how we used to make an Irish stew in Harney. Get an iron pot and put in a couple of cows' spuds (if small, cut in halves; if large, cut in four-quarters), your stew beef (small, cut your onions the same as your spuds) put a small part of the stock of beef in the bottom of pot, then your spuds in the bottom, a layer of small thin, a layer of onions, and so on. If you have a spoonful flavor of the pot, if not, well the first will do. Bang the pot on the hooks, stir the fire put on a log and keep the dog away.

J. CASEY.

No. 5 Belvidere street, Lawrence.

P. S.—Don't forget a salt and pepper.

SERVE WITH CHOPPED PARSLEY.

Editor AMERICAN:

Two pounds lean beef cut in small cubes, cook half an hour; add one pound of beef lamb cut in small cubes, two cups yellow turnips, half a carrot, one big onion, all cut in small cubes, one tablespoonful flour and pepper; let simmer for one hour and half; sprinkle a tablespoonful of flour on top, then stir all together. Serve with chopped parsley.

MISS ANNIE LAMBACK.

4 Prosper street, Malden.

O'REILLY FROM SAME PROVINCE.

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

This is the way we used to make our Irish stew in County Cavan. I hope it will suit Mr. O'Reilly as it comes from the same Province:

Get a piece of good meat; we used to get a boiling bone, and add a little butter; sometimes we used a piece with a couple of rashers of bacon; cut the spuds about two pounds, set on to boil in about two quarts of water and a little salt, boil slowly for two hours, then add the meat, and yellow turnip cut in small carrot, two onions, sprig of parsley, cut finely and curled in dice, cook about half an hour; then add three potatoes cut same as turnips, pepper and salt to taste, add more water if it has cooked down; cook about five minutes, then add dumplings, be sure that the stew is boiling up good when they are added.

For dumplings: one and one-half cups flour, butter size of a walnut worked into flour with fingers, teaspoon baking powder, pinch of salt, enough milk to make a soft dough; put in flour on top of stew that is boiling good with a close cover; cook ten minutes; don't open cover till cooked; serve hot.

When this is cooked just as I have written it, it can't be beat.

Hopes he may see O'Reilly, who's thought of so highly.
From another O'Reilly who is doing quite well.

MISS KATHERINE O'REILLY.

No. 610 Washington street, Wellesley.

GOOD LUCK TO O'REILLY.

Editor AMERICAN:

Select a nice piece of beef, well streaked with fat; cut in small pieces; put in a nice clean kettle, with pepper and salt; put in about three cups of cold water; put on the stove and let it boil gentle for about three-quarters of an hour. Then pare one turnip, two carrots, two parsnips, two or three onions, cut in small pieces; put in with the meat; add all the well done. Then make a few dumplings; add those and let simmer about fifteen minutes, and your stew is all ready for the table. It's great.

Here's luck to O'Reilly.
They speak of so highly.
Hope you enjoy your Irish stew;
Don't cut too hearty
With your brother McCarthy;
My regards to the missus and you.

MRS. M. A. CALDWELL.

No. 2 Fuller street, Malden.

P. S.—I forgot the potatoes.

DOUBTFUL PRAISE

Stippler—Did Miss Kittie admire your portraits?

Dobber—I don't know.

Stippler—What did she say about them?

Dobber—That she could feel that I put a great deal of myself into my work.

Stippler—Well, that's praise.

Dobber—Is it? The picture I showed her was "Cattle in the Meadow."

DORCHESTER LEADS REALTY MART TO-DAY

Sales of realty were reported in large volume to-day. Dorchester district led all other places, over a score of valuable real estate properties having been sold there.

The entries of record filed at the Suffolk registry of deeds for the month of September, as compiled by the Real Estate Exchange, show a large increase in both the number and amount of mortgages over a year ago and also 1907, although the total number of conveyances for the month was slightly less than for the same month of last year. The table follows:

	1909	1908	1907
Number of transfers	762	1041	1067
Number of mortgages	722	541	572
Amount of consideration	$4,870,671	$2,850,134	$3,863,484

Among the sales reported to-day was that of the residential property on Bowdoin, Chestnut street, near Spaulding street, Beacon Hill, taxed at $20,000, and sold for $20,000, of which $9,200 is on the 2,465 square feet of land included in the parcel. There are three-and-one-half stories to the house. Evelyn Mech, Salisbury road, conveyed to Henry A. Johnson, Jr., the property.

Having become convinced that nothing but an earthquake can check the bull campaign now raging in obedience to the act of Congress, commonly known as the Aldrich currency law, State Street bears had promotions that an earthquake was coming. They registered insomnivrex into selling orders, thereby adding to the bull strengthening the already strong technical situation.

$ $ $

This line of argument would seem perfectly plausible if it were included in the some of the strongest professional traders on the Street. It is highly important in showing the complete collapse of traders, who are trying to figure out some reason for the Morgan-Baer bull movement triumphant march through high levels. Morgan has put forth rich men in America and Europe have set a mark for the bull movement, and it is the duty of them to abandon their purpose the stock market in the next eight months will show prices that will make all other bull campaigns look like jokes.

$ $ $

Some stocks have been sold because September without suddenly advanced 14 cents a bushel. What advance will be registered in shorts on expiration of the option. It discloses the strength of the wheat market that the bears have been making statements frequently made in this column that dollar wheat is here to stay, a dollar at least. The strength of wheat is not due to manipulation by future or cash traders, but to the fact that the consumption of wheat is now much faster than production and will continue to grow faster for a few years at least. The advance in the wheat market is not a bear argument on stocks.

$ $ $

Action of sterling exchange is worrying the bear traders. There is such an increase in commodity bills offered that the import of gold in the near future is by no means limited. Such a condition is paradoxical in view of the heavy excess of imports. The fact that exports will soon equal heavy because money is so cheap. They will make another flight of gold unless there is much business as people think, for they have been waiting on rail and cash rates for advance as business became active.

$ $ $

Readers of this column understand why the activity of business does not advance money rates and cannot do so. The fact that we repeatedly stated in this week more than $150,000,000 in dividends and interest, and that we have specified that one of the greatest crops the country ever produced is in full motion with a heavier cash grain movement and bonds every day, money remains around 5 per cent on call, and can be had at 4 per cent over the end of the year. Oh, ron Aldrich currency!

$ $ $

The record spurt in Chesapeake found a ready explanation in the announcement of that road's acquisition of the Chicago, Cincinnati & Louisville Railway. It is understood that the price paid was $10,000,000, "to be raised by an issue of preferred stock of the Chesapeake & Ohio." This is rather vague. The controllers of the Chicago, Cincinnati & Louisville are financial! like, the Chesapeake & Ohio may be regarded as a trunk line between Chicago to Newport News. The Toledo, St. Louis & Western has direct entry to Detroit to St. Louis. The Alton goes to Kansas City from Chicago. The Minneapolis & St. Louis touches Minneapolis and the Iowa Central reaches Des Moines. Any person is quite competent in a way tapping the Middle West, the Southwest, the Northwest and the great Lakes. That is equally significant, there are no parallel lines. A statement of the merger of these railways may be expected in the immediate future. Until then, there is no exchange blanker mortgage to be put out on the system. This gives the United States its most unified system of the three and puts Mr. Hawley materially higher in the railroad world.

Refusal of Amalgamated to yield under the heavy selling of the stock that has been pledged as security by persons familiar with the condition of the company suggests the possibility of a corner in the issue. There are warning clients to let it alone. The stock is so widely distributed among small investors, who bought it around 50 in the days when Amalgamated was a curb stock, a per marker would make serious trouble for the shorts. Amalgamated and Smelters are the only two thoughs sensitive issues were going on under the surface. There are large amounts of both to sell, but the fact can be obtained from any reliable broker. Both are subject to attack by the big traders who are short of Amalgamated and they could cover without attracting attention.

Nipissing and La Rose, the greatest silver mines in America, and perhaps the world, are to be merged through the organization of a holding company. Dividends have been paid in dividends $3,800,000, and La Rose $2,100,000. Between them they have $4,500,000 in cash. The mines are in the same district, and the Cobalt camp, only a small part of which has been prospected. That will have $10,000,000 of ore actually blocked out in the mines in sight. The stock is a dollar from the Lawson, which is owned by La Rose, and which reports estimate as worth $10,000,000 at least.

GERMAN ALLIANCE CROWDS CINCINNATI

CINCINNATI, Oct. 1.—In constantly increasing numbers, delegates to the annual convention of the National German-American Alliance, which is to open here tomorrow, and visitors are arriving from every part of the United States. The Alliance has now a membership of 2,000,000. It has entered into an agreement with the Socialist Party of the United States, Inc., to act in concert in matters of interest to the nation.

KILLS BABY SISTER IN BURGLAR PLAY

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—Edna Hansen, four years old, was shot through the heart and instantly killed today in the home of No. 515 Willow avenue, Hoboken, N. J., by her brother, Charles, age seven, who, with his father's pistol, was showing her what he would do if burglars broke into their home. The little fellow did not know the pistol was loaded.

BABE'S DRESS AFIRE, ON DANGEROUS LIST

Mary Kelly, three years old, of No. 37 Leon street, Roxbury, is on the dangerous list at the City Hospital as a result of a fire in her home. The child's dress caught fire from some unknown cause, and her screams attracted the attention of her mother, who was upstairs, and who ran to her assistance. Mrs. Kelly's hands were badly burned in extinguishing the flames.

TODAY'S STOCK MARKETS; STATE ST. NEWS FOR INVESTORS

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—United States Steel stock again made a new record today by touching 91 1-8. After crossing 91 heavy buying pushed up the quotations an other eighth.

Profit-taking made its appearance in Wall street to-day after a strong opening, with the result that nearly all the leaders reacted a point or more. Selling seemed concentrated in the Harrimans, Steel and Pennsylvania. After the first half hour of trading the market became exceedingly dull. The significant factor was that Amalgamated Copper did not yield under the selling movement.

The reason assigned for the selling was an advance in the call money rate of 1 per cent, and the threat that the Bank of England would increase its discount rate next Thursday to the same figure. Owing to the Aldrich law the American banks have unprecedented command of money available, and no apprehension is felt in this regard to money rates.

The men in charge of the market are also in charge of the banks and have used the recession of a point to buy more.

Reports from all railroads indicate record earnings, and Southern Pacific stock holders evidently expect an increase in dividends. This with the increased dividend on Steel that has been promised by the directors induced good buying.

In London, American stocks were strong. On the Curb market Chicago Subways were slightly higher. Lorraine and Nipissing were strong but dull in spite of the announcement that the two companies will be merged in the near future.

FITZGERALD HITS AT ERNST

Former Mayor John F. Fitzgerald has issued a statement in reply to a statement made about him by former Finance Commissioner George A. O. Ernst.

"Evidence is ample," says the former Mayor, "that Mr. Ernst and his political associates were actuated solely by a desire to kill me politically and ruin my character. It is a significant fact that not a single one of the 13,000 city employes has anything to tell to my detriment.

"The secret service Finance Commission, John Wells Farley acting for the commission, went to the City Hospital to interview Joseph A. Conry, who was said thought to be dying.

"Mr. Conry was the supply storekeeper. Mr. Farley pleaded with him to tell something on Fitzgerald, and he refused. Then he told Conry that so far as he knew there was nothing to tell on Fitzgerald."

POLICE IN SEARCH FOR MISSING MAN

The police of Boston have been asked to search for Millard A. Freeman, aged fifty-eight, of York, Me., who is believed to be wandering about the city in a demented condition. Mrs. Freeman says that she and Freeman, in company with a Mr. Kingston, came to Boston on the steamer Kingston left Freeman at the foot of State street, and he disappeared in South Station. Freeman said he was going to the Boston Store to take a train for his home.

The missing man is described as being five feet, seven inches in height, with brown hair, gray eyes, brown moustache. He wore dark clothes and black derby hat.

RESERVES DECISION IN SALARY DISPUTE

Judge Braley of the Supreme Court today reserved his decision on the petition of Deputy Sheriff Joseph Conway against James Edward Murphy of Lawrence against Mayor White and the city, in which Murphy seeks an order to compel payment to him of his salary from January 1 to date at the rate of $15 per month. Murphy was appointed in May, 1908, without salary, but on May 11 last the Board of Aldermen granted him pay from January 1 last. Mayor White vetoed the order, but the veto did not reach the aldermen within the prescribed time.

CANCEL AUTO MEET AT NARRAGANSETT

PROVIDENCE, Oct. 1.—No sanction having been shown, owner Fred E. Perkins of the Narragansett automobile track today declared off the meet scheduled for this afternoon.

STEEL RECORD DULLNESS IN LOCAL STOCKS

STATE STREET, Oct. 1.—Dullness characterized the market this forenoon, although Lake Copper and Osceola developed activity and with it strength. The former rose 1¼ points 37¾ with slight recession, and the latter rose 2¾ points to 157, with a point setback. Nothing developed in the way of news, although it is believed that the Lake Company is nearing the long sought for lode. Osceola buying is due to expectation of increased earning power by the cheapening of copper costs.

American Zinc reached 32¾, its high point since the company's annual report shows net earnings of $360,000 and $241,445 above interest charges, which was all appropriated for additions and better equipment.

There was little satisfaction in the forecasts copper production for the last half of September, with an added increase in October. The output is expected to be 5,850 tons.

Boston & Maine had a phenomenal month during August with gross earnings of $3,953,142 which was $453,142 greater than for August last year. The earnings below the monthly proportion of interest charges and dividends was $650,857, an increase of $206,756.

The curb market had a firmer tone. Wilfley was the special feature, being in large blocks. The opening was 35 cents and it touched 38 cents. National Exploration ran off to 65 cents.

DEWEY BARRED FROM COMMON

Former Judge Henry S. Dewey, prospective candidate for governor, cannot speak on Boston Common tomorrow. His petition for that privilege has been turned down by the mayor.

Former Judge Dewey's petition called upon the mayor to allow him the use of the bandstand on the Common and for such hire with several hundred chairs, assures or more tables and sufficient rope to enclose the space necessary to properly accommodate his audience. He wanted that part of the Common placed in readiness for him so that he might start his all-day political meeting promptly at 11 o'clock in the morning.

Mayor Hibbard, Candidate Dewey explained that it was his purpose to deliver almost hourly addresses upon The Rights of the People, Law and Equity and Justice," and would give others an opportunity to speak after he concluded each address.

GREAT SHOE SALE DRAWING CROWDS

The Shoewaid Shoe Syndicate of No. 404 Tremont street, has placed on sale the largest single purchase of shoes that has been brought to Boston in recent years. The stock comprises almost every thing for men, women and children in the line of footwear and was secured at forty cents on the dollar from the receivers of the largest shoe store in The Emporium. The sale is crowding the store with eager buyers, which has already been added to the regular force and the store will remain open Saturday evening to give every one an opportunity.

TAFT FAVORS AMERICAN'S SUBSIDY PLAN

SEATTLE, Oct. 1.—President Taft, in his address in the National Amphitheatre at the World's Fair, came out flatfooted for a ship subsidy, and said the country was now ready to try such a measure.

The President thus endorses the policy that has been advocated by the AMERICAN for several years.

"I need not tell you," said Mr. Taft, "of the inadequacy of the American shipping marine on the Pacific and of the growing commercial regime in this regard of the empire of Japan.

"This is one of the most active and generous countries in the matter of subsidy to merchant marine and the effect is only too visible in an examination of statistics.

New Lines to Orient.

"For this reason it seems to me there is no subject to which Congress could better devote its attention during the coming term than the bill to establish regular state our merchant marine in such a way as to establish American lines from New York and other ports to South America, to ports and between our coast ports and the Orient and the Philippines.

"We earn a profit from our foreign merchandise of $1,000,000,000 a year. The appropriation of that amount would be sufficient to establish a splendid fleet to make two or three Oriental lines and a number of lines from the East to South America.

"In some sense we are familiar with the argument in favor of this kind of legislation to private companies out of the treasury of the United States, but we are thus contributing in effect in various ways to similar principles by our protective tariff laws, by our river and harbor bills, and by our reclamation service.

"We are putting money into the pockets of the people which they are giving them out of their own pockets in the form of six months and left to-day for the Berkshire hills, Pittsfield, Mass., where he will join his family.

NEW MARK FOR ATLANTIC LINERS

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—The captain of the Cunard liner Mauretania declared today that he expected to beat the run published yesterday when the liner clipped forty-four minutes off the Lusitania's best record, covering the 2,784 knots run from Liverpool to New York in four days, two hours and forty-four minutes. This was an average of 26.66 knots an hour.

"We've had very weather all the way," he said, "and for fifteen hours we faced very rough seas. We have plowed out down our speed somewhat. The winds were strong southeast and northeast."

'JEFF' WANTS $150,000 FOR THE BIG BOUT

PARIS, Oct. 1.—James J. Jeffries, the American heavyweight, who has been training here for his proposed fight with Jack Johnson, said today that he had almost completely recovered from the cold which he contracted several days ago while attending the races. He will leave here for London on Tuesday next and will take the steamer for the United States on October 18.

Jeffries, who still calls himself the world's champion, expresses himself as disappointed at the meager offer of $55,000 for a fight, saying:

"I am the champion of the world. I have everything to lose and nothing to gain. Therefore I don't want to fight for a purse of less than $150,000. That is the sum first proposed, but since I have begun training my adversaries appear from here. I believe, however, that I will make a match as soon as I reach New York."

10,000 WILL ATTEND HARVARD INAUGURAL

Jerome Greene, secretary to President Lowell of Harvard, to-day declared that the applications for tickets to the inaugural exercises of the new head of Harvard on Wednesday have exceeded all expectations. Ten thousand will be admitted to attend the exercises. Thousands of tickets have been mailed to the alumni, and Secretary Greene says that all of them will be in the mails before Monday. There will be chairs in the yard for 5,000 spectators.

PERRY OUT OF JAIL; GOES TO BERKSHIRES

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—Richard Hilton Perry, who was arrested and was adjudged in contempt of court and sent to the Ludlow street jail on April 1 last for failing to pay over to his former counsel, published the term of six months and left to-day for the Berkshire hills, Pittsfield, Mass., where he will join his family.

PAYS $100 FINE FOR BUCKET SHOP

Irwin W. Pollard pleaded guilty to running a bucketshop at No. 8 Exchange street and paid a fine of $100, when arraigned to-day for the third time before Judge Sanderson in the Municipal Court. Pollard, the police say, was associated with Mrs. Annie McKenzie, for whom they have been searching for over a month. Pollard asked for a further continuance in court to-day, but this plea was opposed by Inspector Farrell.

The Law for Flyers

The difficulty that the science of jurisprudence will encounter in adjusting itself to the new problems and the hitherto unimagined conditions of aerial locomotion is no joke.

Flying is an actual accomplishment, to which a great many ambitious persons are already addicted.

And it has become credulous to suppose that five years more can pass without the establishment of regular lines of aerial transport and the filling of the trackless air with vehicles of private business and pleasure.

In the presence of such phenomena and the frauds, torts, negligences and nuisances that are bound to arise out of them, our system of stolid Anglo-Saxon jurisprudence, framed for mere terrestrial troubles, will stand spellbound and bewildered.

Every new development of natural forces that has materially changed the courses of custom has shocked and, in a measure, dislocated the standards of law.

The revival in the West of the ancient processes of irrigation—unknown to the common law of England and America—entailed a startling expansion of old juridic principles and the invention of new ones.

And the law has not yet adjusted itself to the perplexing problems of the railless locomotive or automobile.

But the difficulties presented by these changes of custom are as nothing compared with the mental jungle of novelties through which the law of aviation will have to beat its way.

Some conception of the scope of this pioneering legal enterprise may be gained by the suggestion that it is as if a highly civilized state, utterly ignorant of navigation, should suddenly take to the water and have instant need of the development of the whole body of maritime jurisprudence.

The suggestion is, however, inadequate. For the practice of aviation will bear harder upon settled terrestrial rights than the business of sailors ever can.

An editorial in a current legal periodical says:

"None of the previous developments in methods of transportation, marvellous as they have been, have enabled men to break the chains which have bound them to the earth, and it has not been difficult to apply old and well-settled principles of law to the new situations.

"Now, however, that man seems about to go flying through the atmosphere, whither he will, it is obvious that the present legal means of controlling his actions will not suffice.

"Either the old legal principles must forsake their solid foundations and take to themselves wings, or else we must develop new principles, by statute or otherwise, to meet situations hitherto utterly unknown and unthought of in the law."

A New Issue in English Politics

English politics has suddenly been thrown into a new alignment on the question of protection and free trade.

A dispatch by cable from our London correspondent declares that never in the history of England has a political issue had sharper edge.

This new development is the work of that dying gladiator who refuses to expire, Mr. Joseph Chamberlain.

Hot-hearted radical Tory, builder of Birmingham and an empire, Chamberlain, with the hand of death stretched out to seize him, has had a house party for Rosebery and Balfour.

They have decided to split the country on the protection question.

Chamberlain began the agitation some years ago for the abandonment of the British free-trade policy and a return to the principal of protection.

But Chamberlain fell sick, and his cause languished.

Now, with his new and powerful allies, he will launch his philippies anew against the Ministry in office and the Lloyd-George budget.

The budget, with its innovating land tax and its bogy of Socialism, will be treated by the revived protection party as the living embodiment of the superstition of free trade.

It will be the theory of this new Toryism that the Liberals are taxing the red-top boots off the hunting squires, in witless ignorance of the revenue that could be got from a aPyne-Aldrich tariff.

The American takes occasion to point out once more—with no hope of mollifying the rancor of English politics, but as an object lesson for Americans—that the idea of supporting a government by a protective tariff is ECONOMIC NONSENSE.

It is nonsense because, within limits, the economic law is that the better the protection the smaller the revenue.

The Chamberlain-Rosebery-Balfour combination may be right in insisting that the English should return to a protective policy.

They are certainly wrong in the assumption that a sound protective tariff could take the place of Lloyd-George's land and income taxes.

LETTERS FROM AMERICAN READERS

COURAGE OF CONVICTIONS

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

Please accept my heartiest congratulations and sincere thanks for the delight afforded me by your courageous editorial on the Green cases of education.

Would that other publications would take example from the AMERICAN and have the courage of their convictions! Such editorials are really inspiring and cannot fail to do much good.

HEAVIER MAIL CARS

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

I wish to say that the editorial in regard to "A Dedell in the Postoffice" was certainly a corker. The only fault I could find with it was that you did not bear down hard enough in speaking of the miserable death traps now used on mail cars on many lines. If the powers that be were only compelled to ride a few trips in the same way that the hard-working mail clerk has to week after week, no doubt there would be something done to mitigate some of the hardships. These cars, generally the lightest in the whole train, are run next to the engine, sandwiched in between the tender and a heavy baggage car, windows and doors have to be kept closed, and in case of an accident of any kind the occupants have not a ghost of a chance to help themselves, but must take whatever comes their way, while even the men on the engine have a much better show to jump to safety. If the government would only insist on having steel cars it not only would be safer for the mail clerks, but would also act as a buffer for the rest of the train in case of a collision.

JUSTICE TO INDIAN

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

Allow me to call attention to the unjust manner in which the American Indians have been driven from place to post, robbed of their homes and rights.

Even where the Government has made allowance for them, they have very often been robbed by dishonest agents. Any one who doubts the truth of the statements made here will only have to read the historical report of Henry Davenport Northrop, D. D., entitled, "Indian Horrors," to satisfy himself that the Indians have been much abused and unjustly dealt with.

About the only thing the Indians had left was the emblem of their head on the penny, to which they could refer with pride and which would remain posterity that this great country once belonged to them.

There is nothing I could say that would add to the glory of that noble patriot and martyr, the great Abraham Lincoln, but there are many coins and bills on which to put his likeness and still let the Indians have their penny. I can trace my family back to 1645 in this country, and believe I have a reasonable right to consider myself an American. I would like to see the head of the American aborigine on the penny.

DR. PARKHURST'S ARTICLE

A PROHIBITION SUBSTITUTE

Written for the Boston American.

By Dr. C. H. Parkhurst

CONSTRUCTIVE methods of improving the world are really the only ones that pay. Telling a boy what to do may do him good and build him up in ways of stout living. Telling him what not to do will be quite as likely to irritate him and to make him all the more desirous of doing what has been forbidden. Whether boy or man, we generally do the thing we want to do, and the only sure way of preventing our doing something that it is worth our while to do, and at the same time that we shall find attractive.

Flies that go on two feet, as well as those that go on half-a-dozen, are caught by molasses rather than by vinegar. The old Jewish policy was a policy of prohibition, and was not a success. It is easier and cheaper to tell a boy that he "must not do this" than it is to find something for him that is worth doing, and that will interest him.

Affectionate ingenuity is one of the most important of parental virtues.

This is the secret of the distrust that thinking people are bound to have in the prohibitory policy that is being so widely adopted just now in the matter of liquor-selling and liquor-drinking: it is destructive, without any constructive element operating on its auxiliary. It involves no expenditure of either money or intelligence for the State to enact a statute that converts all liquor-selling into a crime. It would require both intelligence and money to devise and put into operation a policy that should take off some of the prohibitory edge of the statute and introduce a constructive feature that would appeal to the liquor-drinker attractively.

Liquor Consumption Already Is Decreased

A friend who has just arrived from Strassburg, Germany, reports as follows regarding an experiment that is being successfully tried in that city, and which is framed along the constructive line just proposed:

The municipal authorities of Strassburg have undertaken to diminish the amount of drinking among the working classes by substituting milk in its stead. Booths have been erected in different parts of the city where that commodity is sold for ten pfennings (two and a half cents) per large glass, and for half that sum for a small glass. In the season berries are served with good cream at the same figures. The working people show themselves only too glad to avail themselves of the opportunity so afforded.

The average Strassburger is intelligent enough to know that milk is nutritious in a way that beer and other drinks are not; also that milk and alcoholics do not harmonize, so that taking the former precludes to a degree any indulgence in the latter. The result is that the amount of liquor consumed has been very considerably reduced and the municipality is congratulating itself.

Muensterberg Without Nerves

There is something oracular in the way in which things are stated and opinions put forward by Professor Hugh Muensterberg of Cambridge that makes him interesting. He says a good deal, but always with an inflection of assurance. He does not hesitate to say the unexpected—in fact, seems rather to enjoy doing so. He publishes his opinions with something of the air of the court of last resort, which pronounces itself always in finalities. This makes his writings bracing and stimulating, for we are not likely to be affected by the convictions of any author who is not first a tremendous believer in those convictions himself.

The Professor has just given to the public a magazine article on "Nerves." It is written, of course, in strong, bold English, although it is said that when he first came to America he could neither speak nor write a single intelligible English sentence. His nationality, however, rather precludes the likelihood of his being able to discuss appreciatively the topic which he treats in the magazine.

In order to be able to speak intelligently upon nerves one needs to have nerves, and that is an ingredient that is omitted from the German constitution. This is not spoken with any disrespectful intention. All that is meant is, that the nerves that are threaded into the German anatomy are of a different order from those present in the indigenous population of the States.

We Americans cannot be in a storm without being invaded by the storm.

Everything gets into us that we get into. A German can keep still in the midst of disquiet, and keep cool in the midst of heat, all of which is an art with which we are quite unfamiliar.

The professor, therefore, pokes fun at rest cures. That is because he never goes sufficiently tired and wrought upon to need a rest cure. That is admirable, but it disqualifies him for writing enlighteningly upon the matter that he wrestles with. Half an hour of serious intercourse with any one of the thousands of nervous "breakdowns" in our country who are either the inmates of resteries, or ought to be, would give Professor Muensterberg more solid information in regard to nerves than he could obtain by any amount of German theorization, and would save the philosopher from the unphysiological absurdity of saying that "nervousness is an illusion."

The antidote of denial is hardly the kind of therapeutics that we should expect from a trained thinker.

Uncle—I hope you have been a good boy, Tommy!

Tommy—Well, no—I haven't.

Uncle—Dear, dear. I hope you haven't been very bad.

Tommy—M'no! Just comfortable.

School Days in 1920

By WEX JONES

"THIS, children," said the teacher, "is a photograph of Cook;
You'll find it if you get the page—page twenty of your book.
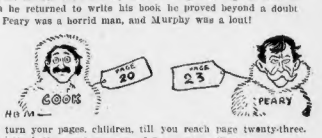
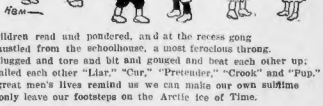
He went to seek the Pole, my dears, and gathered great renown.
When he returned to write his book he proved beyond a doubt
That Peary was a horrid man, and Murphy was a lout!



"Now turn your pages, children, till you reach page twenty-three.
A splendid half-tone photograph of Peary you will see.
This Peary was a gentleman, a thoroughbred, a prince;
He called Doc Cook no harsher names than 'Yeggman,' 'Thief' and 'Quince.'
Read well the lives of these great men, these men of wondrous fame,
And when you have concluded try to make your lives the same."



The children read and pondered, and at the recess gong
They hustled from the schoolhouse, a most ferocious throng.
They slugged and tore and bit and pounded each other up;
They called each other "Liar," "Cur," "Pretender," "Crook" and "Pup."
Thus great men's lives remind us we can make our own sublime
If we only leave our footsteps on the Arctic ice of Time.

Love! Mystery! Adventure!
